PLANES ATTACK BRITISH FLEET

By INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE

The first combat between warships in the open sea and bombing planes since the new European war broke out was revealed in London and Berlin today—with diametrically opposed versions of the outcome released by the British and German admiralties.

The conflict occurred at some unspecified spot in the middle of the North Sea when a fleet of German aircraft attacked part of the British flotilla, including a number of battleships, an aircraft carrier, a cruiser and several destroyers.

The Germans claim that the aircraft carrier was sunk and one battleship struck several times by aerial bombs.

The British claim that no British ship was hit, that there had been no British casualties, and that one German plane had been forced down, its crew captured, and a second damaged.

German Version

BERLIN, Sept. 27 (INS)—Overwhelming successes by German war planes in raids on British warships in the North Sea, including the claimed destruction of another British aircraft carrier, were announced by the German high command today.

(Editor's note: Reports of a violent battle in the North Sea reached Copenhagen yesterday, but were later "explained" to have resulted from harmless practice maneuvers by the Norwegian navy.)

(The previous day heavy firing off the Norwegian coast was explained as "necessary dynamiting" on an island.)

A communique issued by the German high command stated that in addition to the aircraft carrier being destroyed, one British battleship was struck several times in direct hits by German bombs.

The communique read:

"The German air force successfully attacked yesterday British naval forces, battleships, aircraft carriers, cruisers and destroyers in the middle of the North Sea.

"One aircraft carrier was destroyed.

"One battleship was directly hit several times by heavy German bombs.

"Our air forces suffered no losses."

(The Associated Press translation of this communique follows: "The German air force units yesterday successfully attacked English naval units—battleships, airplane carriers, cruisers, destroyers—in the middle part of the North Sea. Besides one airplane carrier which has been destroyed, several severe hits were scored on one battleship. Our airplanes sustained no losses."

(The Associated Press said that in Berlin this was interpreted to mean that a SECOND British aircraft carrier—the Courageous, sunk Sept. 17 with a loss of 500 lives, being the first—had been destroyed. But the communique did not name the British vessel.)

ATTACK—Cross indicates approximate location in "the middle part of the North Sea" where Nazi air force units "successfully attacked" several British warships.

GOEBBELS OUT?

LONDON, Sept. 27 (INS)—Paul Joseph Goebbels is about to be supplanted as German propaganda minister, a Reuters dispatch from Zurich Switzerland today said certain Berlin circles believed.

His successor, the story suggested, will be Dr. Wiener, a confidant of Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering.

British Version

LONDON, Sept. 27 (INS)—German claims of sweeping successes in Nazi air raid on the British fleet in the North Sea yesterday were flatly denied today by Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty.

On the contrary, Churchill said, not a single British ship was hit, while one German plane was shot down and another damaged.

"Twenty German aircraft," Churchill told the House of Commons, "attacked a portion of the British fleet in the middle of the North Sea yesterday afternoon.

"There were no British casualties, but one German machine was shot down and another damaged.

The British vessels comprised a squadron of capital ships, one aircraft carrier, one cruiser and a number of destroyers.

"One German aircraft came down nearby. Its crew of four was picked up by a destroyer and taken prisoner.

"No British ship was hit during the engagement."

DIPLOMACY IN BALKANS

IS THIS A WALL to block Germany's "drive to the East"? Agents of Turkey, Bulgaria and Rumania are reported negotiating a pact with Russia to prevent encroachment on their territories. Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania seek a trade and non-aggression pact with Russia. Italy seeks a "neutral peace bloc" in the Balkans with Yugoslavia, Greece, Turkey and Bulgaria and Rumania, each defending other in case of attack. Whichever power succeeds, Russia or Italy, it bodes ill for Germany's intentions.

War Diary

27th Day

On the Sea

severe damage inflicted on the warships differed widely—and wildly—from British assertions. According to one interpretation of the Nazi communique, issued in Berlin, a second English aircraft carrier (the first being the Courageous), was sunk and several direct hits were scored on a big battleship. The Germans contended their air fleet suffered no losses. But Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, told Commons the German attack not only was beaten off without any loss to Britain, but that three German planes were disabled, the crew of one being captured.

In the welter of contradiction the sole confirmed fact remained—the British squadron WAS bombed.

In the Air

On the Land

While Berlin officially claimed capitulation of Warsaw the war-excited voice of the beleaguered Polish capital's radio announcer came back on the air again this morning to assert the city still was unconquered. Once more facts seemed to contradict. The official German version was that the Warsaw military commandant had offered to surrender and a German general was conducting negotiations. The radio announcer, according to Bucharest advices, declared the city was a flaming inferno, but that it would not be surrendered while one defender remained alive. He reported the killing of 17 nuns when a hospital was bombed. Horses slain in the bombardment furnish the principal food for the city's dwindling residents.

On the West front, French claims of renewed successful assaults on Germany's West wall met with placid "all quiet" claims from the Nazi side. American correspondents, taken to view the Siegfried line fortifications, reported children playing in the streets of towns the French claimed had been "evacuated" and peasants cheerfully harvesting crops.

Behind the Front

The staggering cost of war was brought home to Britain today when announcement was made in Commons that eight billion dollars would be raised for the first year of the conflict and that the income-tax would be raised to about $1.40 out of every $4.00 of income. Meanwhile German Foreign Minister Von Ribbentrop today arrived by plane in Moscow in what may produce the most significant outcome in the present war. There were reports that Germany and Russia were about to complete a "deal" to cut up all Europe. Meanwhile, the Balkans were organizing a peace bloc, insured of a protecting wing by Italy.

BAND GREETS NAZI ENVOY IN MOSCOW

MOSCOW, Sept. 27 (AP)—Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop of Germany arrived today for talks with the Soviet government amid unconfirmed reports a Soviet-German military pact was under consideration.

Three planes bearing the German delegation landed at 5:45 p. m. (9:45 a. m. Boston Time) from Berlin to be greeted by a brass band and an honor guard, touches that were missing when Von Ribbentrop arrived Aug. 23 to sign the Soviet-German non-aggression pact. Vladimir Potemkin, vice commissar of foreign affairs, headed Soviet officials welcoming the Nazi party.

Von Ribbentrop smiled broadly as he emerged from the plane to exchange "Heil Hitler" greetings and handshakes with the staff of the German embassy.

TALLINN, Estonia, Sept. 27 (AP)—Foreign Minister Karl Selter, accompanied by Prof. Juri Uluots, president of the Chamber of Deputies, and Prof. Antonius Phip, former foreign minister, went to Moscow today in connection with new Russian proposals.

The airport was decorated with inter-twined Soviet and Nazi flags. Italian Ambassador Augusto

Warsaw Now 'A Destroyed Inferno'

AIR VOICE TELLS OF DAILY HORROR

Berlin Reports Surrender

BERLIN, Sept. 27 (INS)—After 20 days of siege, Warsaw has offered to surrender, it was officially announced in Berlin this afternoon. The military commandant of Warsaw, the Berlin announcement said, finally offered to capitulate to end the ceaseless bombardment of the former Polish capital.

Gen. Von Blaskowitz, commander of German occupational troops in central Poland, was authorized by the high command to negotiate the surrender.

BUDAPEST, Sept. 27 (AP)—The Warsaw radio, returning to the air after a lapse of nearly two days, today reported the Polish capital had become "a destroyed inferno" in its 20th day of German siege.

The announcer declared "more than 3000 civilians" had been killed in the past 24 hours.

Polish troops guarding the capital were said to have repulsed all German land attacks.

"Warsaw has been virtually razed," said the radio announcer, declaring, however, that "the morale of the population is excellent and we will never give in while one of us still is alive."

Speaking at 2:15 p. m. (8:15 a. m. E. S. T.), he reported German bombing planes were throwing incendiary bombs into the center of the city.

PLAY HYMNS

Communication within the capital was described as impossible "because of the fires and universal wreckage."

"The food situation is tragic," said the announcer. "Our last hospital was destroyed by German shells today."

Fears of an epidemic because of water shortage added to the horrors of the besieged capital.

Between announcements the Warsaw station played hymns. Dead and wounded were said to be lying in the capital streets because of the breakdown of all transportation and communication facilities. Fires were raging unchecked because water mains were broken.

"We foresee a tragic situation soon for our capital," said the announcer calmly. "The reservoir and water pumps have been destroyed by German air attacks. The city now totally lacks water and it seems an epidemic must come."

Destruction of the Hospital of the Child Jesus shortly before noon was said to have caused the deaths of 17 nuns and three physicians.

The announcer asserted Polish anti-aircraft guns had brought down eight raiding planes yesterday.

More than 100 heavy German siege guns were said to be pouring shells into the center of the city, a stream uninterrupted since Saturday.

CALLS CITY INFERNO

At 2:30 p. m. (8:30 a. m. EST) the broadcaster said "several hundred more" incendiary bombs had been dumped into the capital.

"There are more than 500 fires burning now. About all that is left to burn is now blazing."

All public buildings were described as afire or already badly damaged by flames.

Hundreds of horses killed each day were said by the announcer to have been butchered immediately to feed the besieged populace.

Troops defending the city were holding their positions "against savage and desperate Nazi attacks" and in some places had bettered their positions with bayonet charges, said the announcer, adding that Polish losses were "exceedingly small."

"Tell the British and French governments we are holding out," said a special message broadcast to the Polish ambassadors in London and Paris "We expect aid will be forthcoming from our allies. The city is razed, but we live on."

"The Nazi invaders, enraged by our resistance, are systematically burning, shelling and bombing every living human being or animal."

"They are making this an inferno on earth, apparently intending to wipe us out to the last man, woman and child."

Lady Astor Calls British War News (?) Disgrace

LONDON, Sept. 27 (AP)—Lady Astor, American-born member of Parliament, declared in the House of Commons today that the manner in which British war news was being disseminated in neutral countries was "an absolute disgrace."

"We're going to make one last plea for our happiness," Miss Preble said. "We're going to tell Dick's dad he was wrong in branding Dick a spendthrift and getting a court injunction against our wedding."

"I'm going to tell Mr. Engel that I care more about his son's future welfare than he does himself."

MAY WED IN N. Y.

"I want to see Dick stand on his own feet and be a man. And if his father won't tell the court it's all right for us to get married in Massachusetts, then we'll get married somewhere else."

In hearty agreement was young Engel. He said:

"Maybe we'll go to New York this very week-end and get married there. We can go to the World's Fair on our honeymoon."

The young couple met in Boston to talk over the situation created by Dad Engel's precedent-setting legal action, which resulted in issuance of a court order to all city and town clerks forbidding them to issue a marriage license to his son.

Young Dick was all for an immediate out-of-state elopement today, but Miss Preble counseled patience.

She pointed out that her job as a South End restaurant cashier and Dick's own ability to earn his own living gave them a right to act independently.

"But you'll be happier, Dick, if you and your father patch up your quarrel," she said.

So the young sweethearts set out together for Quincy, where Engel, Sr., owns a night club and restaurant and operates a contracting business.

Hand in hand and "more in love than ever," despite the novel legal ban invoked against their intended marriage in Massachusetts, Richard F. Engel, 22, and his pretty, 28-year-old sweetheart, Miss Emma F. Preble, sought a conciliatory interview today with Engel's irate Quincy father.

"We're going to make one last plea for our happiness," Miss Preble said. "We're going to

W.J. PAUL DIES IN BLAZING AUTO

Trapped by peculiar circumstance, William J. Paul, for years a prominent Dorchester real estate dealer, was burned to death today in his automobile as he backed out of a garage less than a block from his home.

So badly burned was the body that it was unrecognizable, and identification was first established only through what remained of his hand.

The realtor and insurance man, 69 years old, a widower with a married daughter, Paul had taken his car from a two-car garage at Geneva and Homes avenues and had just backed it to the street when it burst into flames.

Examination of the car later showed that the inside door handle on the driver's side was broken and that he had failed to lower the car window, which would have given access to the outside handle.

So rapidly did the flames spread that passerby who ran to the tragedy car were driven back by the fire and were unable to release the realtor.

Police finally removed him and he was rushed to City Hospital, where he was pronounced dead.

The realtor had offices at Geneva ave. and Bowdoin st., Dorchester, beside which he lived, and in Columbia rd., Dorchester.

Slugged as He Walks To Cure Headache

Report that he was sandbagged and kicked by two men in a field off Brainerd rd., Allston, was made to police early today by John Pitkin of Commonwealth ave., Allston, an automobile worker.

Pitkin said he had a headache shortly after midnight, so he got up to take a walk. Returning through the field from a restaurant, he said the two strangers assaulted him, but fled when he fought and shouted for help. They got no money.

Skidding Ducks

SUN VALLEY, Idaho, Sept. 27 (AP)—Migrating mallards mistook an open air ice skating rink for a pond. Alighting, the ducks tail-spinned, ground-looped and skidded clear across the pond onto a lawn.

Huge French Guns Shatter Portions of Main German Line

PARIS, Sept. 27 (AP)—French artillery was reported today to have wiped out portions of the German Siegfried line between Merzig and Saarbrücken as the entire western front blazed with heavy cannonading.

BECK MUST REMAIN IN RUMANIA

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Sept. 27 (INS)—The Rumanian government today sharply restricted movements of members of the Polish government who fled into Rumania to escape the German war machine.

The government formally refused to accede to a request from Polish Foreign Minister Josef Beck for permission to change his residence. Beck has been staying with other members of the Polish cabinet in the resort town of Flanc.

Beck said he wished to leave because of a quarrel with Police Premier Gen. Felicjan Slawoj-Skladkowski, but the Rumanian government declared such reasons for moving were not acceptable.

The Rumanian foreign office permitted no communications between Polish Marshal Edward Smigly-Rydz at Craiova and Polish President Ignace Moscicki at Becu or the cabinet members at Flanc. No Polish officials will be permitted to leave the country.

Discontent, meanwhile, spread among the 20,000 Polish refugees in Rumania as a result of the British government's refusal to issue them visas for travel to England.

The Rumanian government, authorities revealed, was "forced" to issue a stern warning that no Polish demonstrations would be tolerated.

Meanwhile, trade negotiations between Rumania and Germany were stalled temporarily because of Rumania's inability to supply the amount of oil demanded by Germany.

Italian Reports Say Chamberlain to Quit

ROME, Sept. 27 (INS)—The Rome newspaper Il Piccolo in a London dispatch today told of "increasing reports" that Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain may resign.

Dispatches said the Germans were answering the bombardment with an intense counterfire on French advance positions in the Saar and Palatine areas to protect Nazi troops working feverishly to rebuild shattered blockhouses.

A communique issued this morning by the general staff made no reference to this reported success, and said the night had been "calm."

The communique made mention, however, of "enemy artillery fire on our lines in the region of Wissembourg."

AIR FORCES AID
The Merzig-Saarbrücken sector extends along a 25-mile front at the northern end of the German frontier, where, French sources said, there were 30 to 40 German pill boxes to the square mile.

French military men were said to have held long the belief that these works were constructed too hurriedly to stand up under heavy bombardment.

Reports from the front said the air force was proving a large factor in enabling the artillery to score direct hits on the German fortified line.

French infantry activity, these reports declared, was confined to patrol skirmishes.

German troops, meanwhile, were said to be massing behind the lines as fast as they could be transferred from the Polish front.

CLOSE WATCH

On the diplomatic front, France and Britain kept close watch on negotiations between Germany and Soviet Russia, marked by the expected arrival of German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop in Moscow today.

Nazis Attack Under Heavy French Fire

BASEL, Switzerland, Sept. 27 (AP)—German troops were reported in advances received today to have attacked on the western front directly under the big French guns at Wissembourg, near the tip of the elbow in the parallel German and French lines.

This attack, like others in the Wissembourg sector, apparently was designed to flank French forces in the Vosges forest west of the Wissembourg fort, where the advance German forts of Fischbach and Ludwigswinkel were reported cut off from main line fortifications protecting the Pirmasens-Landau road.

Pope in Peace Spur to Nuncios

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy, Sept. 27 (INS)—Pope Pius has sent messages to all nuncios instructing them to spare no efforts in dealing directly with the heads of states to enforce peace, or see that war is conducted with as little inhumanity as possible, it was learned today.

The Pontiff also ordered the nuncios to Poland and Rumania to expand their work for the general assistance of refugees from Poland.

As Pope Benedict did during the World War, the Pope has created in the secretariat of state a special office to work for prisoners of war and the wounded. He plans, it was understood, to ask for accords among the belligerents for the treatment of prisoners and wounded.

Plea to 'A. L. Mothers' With War-Age Sons

NEW NAZI-RED PARLEY STARTLES ALL EUROPE

Rosso was the only foreign diplomat who appeared for the welcome.

The coming of Germany's foreign minister, coupled with the presence in Moscow of the Turkish foreign minister, caused diplomatic circles to speculate today on possible developments rivaling in importance the German-Soviet Russian non-aggression pact.

These developments, said diplomats, might include:

1—Signing of a German-Soviet military agreement.

2—Formation of a new Balkan-Near East bloc under the guidance of Turkey and Russia.

3—A joint German-Soviet request that Turkey act as intermediary in attempts to negotiate peace in Western Europe.

The purpose of the visit of German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, said Tass, official Russian news agency, was to discuss "problems connected with developments in Poland."

Moscow observers thought it significant, however, that Von Ribbentrop should time his journey to coincide with the presence of Turkish Foreign Minister Sukru Sakaoglu.

FRESH SURPRISES SEEN

Recalling Von Ribbentrop's first historic visit here, Aug. 23, when Germany and Russia signed their epochal non-aggression pact, these observers were prepared for fresh surprises.

The first of these surprises came in reports that Albert Forster, Danzig Nazi leader, would accompany Von Ribbentrop.

Von Ribbentrop was scheduled to dine with the German ambassador tonight, and it was believed unlikely that his talks with Soviet officials would start before tomorrow.

While the impending visit of the Nazi official occupied the center of the stage, there was speculation on the possibility that Russia may have made strong demands for maritime rights upon her little Baltic neighbor, Estonia.

A government communique issued last night accused Estonia of harboring unidentified submarines in her waters.

Estonia Ready To Battle Soviet
STOCKHOLM, Sept. 27 (INS)—With Soviet troops reported concentrating in huge masses along the Estonian frontier, Gen. Laidoner, commander-in-chief of the Estonian army, declared his nation would "defend herself valiantly and unitedly" if attacked, according to a radio broadcast from Tallinn, the capital.

Belgium Aids Nazi Denial

BRUSSELS, Sept. 27 (AP)—The Belgian information ministry today issued a denial of reports that German troops were being massed at Aachen (Aix-la-Chapelle), near the Belgian frontier, declaring that the denial came from "a good source."

(French dispatches have reported heavy troop movements near Aachen, which is close to the point where the Belgian, German and Netherlands frontiers meet.)

(An International News Service despatch from London today added to this indication Belgium might be leaning to the side of Germany. The despatch said:

"Belgium has concluded a large battle deal with Germany involving what is believed to be an exchange of wheat and coal, the Daily Herald said today in a despatch from Brussels.

"All the Belgian wheat requirements, the newspaper asserted, will be supplied by Germany's stocks of Rumanian wheat, while Germany probably will receive coal, which is a surplus commodity in Belgium.")

Bremen in Soviet Port, British Now Believe

LONDON, Sept. 27 (INS)—Official British belief that the German luxury liner Bremen has taken refuge in a northern Russian port was expressed in the House of Commons today by Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty.

BARES RED THEFTS OF U. S. MAIL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (INS)—Dr. D. H. Dubrowsky, former head of the Soviet Red Cross in this country, today told the Dies committee that "scarcely had the ink dried" on the American treaty recognizing Russia than an OGPU agent was assigned to his office to arrange for wholesale thefts of mail, cables and telegrams.

He said the name of the man assigned by the notorious Soviet secret police was Dr. Jacob Sternglus and that a trip to Russia to register a personal protest proved of no avail.

Assignment of Sternglus to the Soviet Red Cross office was made in the winter of 1933-34, the office being used to "cover him up," Dr. Dubrowsky asserted.

He testified that after returning from Russia where he had protested to the central committee of the Red Cross there, he had laid a written memorandum before the counselor of the Russian embassy stating that Dr. Sternglus was organizing agents for the theft of U. S. mail, and demanding an investigation.

Dr. Dubrowsky's memorandum, which was read to the committee, also stated that he "understood" that Dr. Sternglus was attempting to "hire minor employees of Western Union, Commercial Cables and Radio Corporation of America to intercept cables and telegrams."

"The counselor at the embassy told me 'understandingly, we damned, we can't do anything,'" the witness said.

Embargo Rally To Be Held Here

Dr. William H. Griffin, former State commander of the American Legion, was announced today as chairman of the mass demonstration to be staged on Boston Common Sunday against any lifting in the arms embargo.

U. S. Sen. David I. Walsh is to be one of the three speakers of national prominence who will address the audience on the best way to promote neutrality for the United States in the present European war. The exercises will begin at 3 o'clock.

Assisting Dr. Griffin will be Dist. Atty. Edmund R. Dewing of Wellesley; Atty. Timothy Mulcahy, Fred Muldoon and Everett Prout, all of Boston; William S. Lodge of West Roxbury, Edward F. McLaughlin of Dorchester, Edward J. Deveney of Roslindale, Fred A. Mahoney of West Roxbury, Atty. Harry Casey, D. D. Donovan and John J. Murphy, George Edwards, Frank W. Lally of Brookline, Leo F. Murphy and Frank W. Norris, both of Dorchester.

Mrs. Roosevelt Shies at Bustle And Wasp Waist

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (INS)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, the nation's First Lady, said today she would never wear a bustle or go in for wasp waist.

Asked at her press conference about the new fashions for women, she said she was amazed anyone should ask about clothes at a time when more serious subjects confront the nation because of Europe's war.

Asked point blank if she would wear a bustle, Mrs. Roosevelt said no.

Then, as an afterthought, she said she would never go in for a wasp waist.

See Quick Victory On Neutrality Bill

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP)—Supporters of the Administration's neutrality bill to repeal the arms embargo and bar American ships from carrying any cargoes to belligerents claimed 46 Senate votes today and began talking of a quick victory.

One member of the group said the revised bill, to be considered by the entire Senate foreign relations committee tomorrow, had stolen much of the opposition's thunder by its "cash, credit and carry" provision.

Opponents prepared to confine their fight primarily to the embargo issue. Senator Johnson (R.) of California said it was going to be a "long scrap" and "we expect to win."

The opposition leaders claimed at least 35 votes and said they hoped to swing more to their side during the Senate debate. A Senate majority is 49.

Advocates of repeal were delighted by the announcement that Alfred E. Smith, who has taken leave with Roosevelt domestic policies would deliver a radio speech in support of the President's neutrality program. Smith's address will be given Sunday at 7 p. m. Eastern Standard Time, over a CBS hookup, under the auspices of the American Union for Concerted Peace Efforts. The Administration itself is not taking a hand in the speech-making campaign for removal of the embargo.

President Roosevelt has been talking with individual Senators, but Sec. of State Hull declined yesterday to express his views on the text of the neutrality bill before the Senate foreign relations committee.

Mr. Roosevelt had little to say about the neutrality bill at his press conference yesterday, but he told reporters that the War and Navy Departments had asked him to direct public attention to the fact that some foreign purchasers were attempting to buy "strategic war materials" in this country in the open market.

Bergdoll Tells of 2 Trips Back to U. S.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (INS)—Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, America's No. 1 World War draft dodger, electrified his court-martial trial today with the calm declaration that twice before his return from Germany last May—twice during the years he was "wanted"—he made his way back to his Philadelphia home by way of Canada, each time returning unmolested to Germany.

Bergdoll said his first return to shores then unfriendly to him was motivated by the desire to obtain a gold cache of $160,000. During his visit, he said, the gold was removed from a secret hiding place in his mother's Philadelphia home and deposited with a Philadelphia banking firm.

Even this sensational disclosure was partially overshadowed by the promise of his counsel to show that the former playboy of Philadelphia was in the United States—not Germany—for five years following his escape in 1920.

Bergdoll's revelation of his visits to the United States was made before 13 grave-faced army officers comprising his judges at Governor's Island.

In turn, his story came as a climax to the dramatic recital by Eugene Stecher, Bergdoll's former chauffeur, of how Bergdoll eluded his military guards in 1920 and sought sanctuary abroad.

UNDER ASSUMED NAMES

Harry Weinberger, defense counsel, drew from Bergdoll the story of his wanderings from 1929 through 1935 during which time the asserted visits to this country were made.

"Where did you live in Germany up to 1924?" asked Weinberger.

"In different hotels," said Bergdoll.

Q—When did you come to the United States? A—In 1929 I came to Montreal. I sailed under the name of Joseph Amann. Bergdoll said he went from Montreal to New York and thence to Trenton and Philadelphia by train.

Q—How long did you stay at your home? A—Four years. I left on the Bremen in June, 1933.

Q—How did you leave Philadelphia? A—My brother, Erwin, drove me to the Bremen in a car.

Q—How long did you stay in Germany after you arrived there? A—Until 1935, when I went to Southampton and sailed for Canada aboard the Empress of Britain under the name of John Sparks.

Q—How long did you stay at your home then? A—Three years. Until October, 1938, when I sailed on the Europa under the name of Bennet Nash.

Q—How long did you stay at your home then? A—Three years. Until October, 1938, when I sailed on the Europa under the name of Bennet Nash.

GOLD CACHE IN CLOSET

Concerning the gold cache, Bergdoll said:

"It was in a closet in my house in Philadelphia. I had a little compartment in the rear of the closet, between the walls."

His mother, he said, deposited the gold with Weigand Co., a Philadelphia banking firm, in June, 1929. Stecher, Bergdoll's former chauffeur, hobbled to the witness stand on crutches to describe how he picked up Bergdoll on May 20, 1920, and "started to go places."

They first made their way to Canada, he said, and thence to London.

'Dissolved' French Reds Form New Party

PARIS, Sept. 27 (INS)—French Communists struck back today against the government decree dissolving the Communist party in France.

A group of Communist deputies met in the Chamber and formed a new party called the "Group of French Workers and Peasants." Aim of the new group was stated as "emancipation of the working classes."

Police Form Emergency Battalion

Organization of a police "emergency battalion," for duty in connection with fires, floods, hurricanes or any other emergency, was announced today by Police Superintendent Edward W. Fallon.

Made up of 40 ranking officers and 232 privates, the battalion includes two shotgun companies, a machine-gun platoon, a mounted platoon, a motorcycle platoon, a rescue platoon with ambulance and other equipment and a radio section equipped to handle various types of communication.

All-American Concerts Free

The Boston Symphony Orchestra is America-minded.

Open to the public of New England without charge, on the evening of Oct. 4 and the afternoon of Oct. 5, concerts of all-American symphonic music will be given in Symphony hall.

Dr. Serge Koussevitzky will conduct and George E. Judd, manager of Symphony hall, is in charge of the free tickets.

Since he came to Boston in 1924, Dr. Koussevitzky, more than any other symphony conductor, has encouraged the composition of American symphonic music.

The All-American programs will feature the works of Deems Taylor, John Alden Carpenter, Arthur Foote, George Gershwin, Howard Hanson, Roy Harris, William Schuman, Charles Ives, Louis Gruenberg, Randall Thompson and Henry Hadley.

Youth Rearrested As He Ends Jail Term

Completing a three-month sentence at Billerica House of Correction for drunken driving, Francis W. Harrington, 20, of White pl., Brookline, was re-arrested today by Brookline police.

In Brookline court he was held on $1000 for the grand jury on charges of breaking and entering in the night time and larceny of an automobile, on June 30, from the garage of Longwood Towers apartment hotel. It was in this car that Harrington was arrested as a drunken driver in Wakefield, it is charged.

40 B. C. Students Take Flight Tests

Of some 300 Boston College students taking out application a week ago for air flight training, only 40 today had taken physical tests sponsored by the civil aeronautics authority.

GIRLS, TOO—Ruth Hallstrand, Jackson College student, was the first girl student to sign up for Civil Airplane Training Course in New England. Here she gets lesson from Flight Instructor William N. Batty.

GIRL WIFE HELD AS GUN CARRIER

Despite tearful protests that she had only acted to prevent a fellow traveler from committing suicide, Mrs. Alice Kirk Connell of Monument st., Charlestown, young wife of a navy radio operator attached to the U. S. S. Leary, was held in bonds of $500 today for possession of a revolver without a license.

Mrs. Connell told police, and repeated her story to Judge Charles Sullivan in Charlestown court, that she had returned from New York Friday, and that while on the train had met a man from Lowell, who was most depressed.

"He showed me the gun three times," she said, "and told me he was afraid he would kill himself. Finally he gave it to me."

At home, she said, her husband wanted to take the gun away, but she wouldn't give it to him. Then, last night, she was arrested in a Chelsea st., Charlestown, cafe when a taxicab driver reported she had it in her possession.

She appeared in police lineup this morning and was then taken to court. Hearing on the charge was continued until Oct. 4.

Barrow Back Home As Potato Champ

AUGUSTA, Me., Sept. 27—Gov. Lewis O. Barrows returned home today with his new "potato picking championship"—won at the expense of the governor of Idaho.

Maine's governor declared he liked the trip and the contest and probably will take a job picking potatoes when he retires from political life.

Excuse Our New Gear Shift Clears Speeder

Progress in automotive design today won John Galenius, 30, leniency in West Roxbury court when he advanced a novel excuse for speeding.

Pleading not guilty to the charge before Judge Daniel W. Casey, Galenius, who lives on Western ave., Wakefield, explained that he had been unable to locate low gear on the steering wheel shift of a new car he had borrowed.

"You seem to have been able to find high gear all right," commented Judge Casey. "However, I will place the case on file."

Galenius was stopped by Officer Walter Hafner, of the West Roxbury station, on Washington st.

STATE WPA QUOTA RAISED

Seek Murder Clue At Norfolk Downs

A possible murder mystery today confronted Quincy police, with discovery in a swamp near the Norfolk Downs railroad depot of a body tentatively identified as that of Eugene A. Hughes of Ratchford st., Quincy, linotype operator on a Boston newspaper.

The man had been cut about the head and bruised in the ribs.

Medical Examiner George Dalton, expressing himself as not satisfied that the apparent injuries would have been sufficient to cause death, notified Dist. Atty. Edmund R. Dewing for permission to conduct an autopsy.

"WAS THERE YESTERDAY" A woman passenger on an Old Colony commuters' train sighted the body about 25 feet from the railroad right of way and notified the conductor.

But, as Quincy police and Dr. Dalton were inspecting the scene, a railroad employe on the caboose platform of a passing freight train shouted:

"He was there yesterday, boys." On Dr. Dalton's assurance that the man had been dead at least 24 hours, police were checking with the New Haven railroad on the identity of the employe on the freight train.

ABOUT 30 YEARS OLD In the pockets of the man's blue dungarees, which he wore under a blue sweater, police found a social security card with the name "Eugene A. Hughes," and the Ratchford st. address, together with the name of a Boston newspaper as employer.

The personnel department of the newspaper confirmed that a man of that name and address worked there in the composing room. He was described as 30 years old and married.

On another card, police found a request to notify a Margaret Galvin, of the Ratchford st. address, "in case of accident."

Still another card gave the same name, but an address in Woodville pk., Roxbury.

The man had $2.50 in cash in his pockets when he was found. The body was lying head down on marshy ground near the Norfolk Woodworking Plant, and not far from the Norfolk Downs station of the Old Colony.

Following a conference with the medical examiner, Capt. George Fallon, of the Quincy police, expressed belief the man had not been struck by a train.

Six bruises were found on the body under the left arm and at the base of the ribs. There were several cuts about the head, but the condition of the man's outer clothing appeared to preclude the possibility of a train accident, according to Fallon.

J. E. Hurley, Dever Secretary, Weds

John E. Hurley, secretary to Attorney General Dever, was married today to Miss Margaret M. Lee of Dorchester by the Rev. Father Edward H. Finnegan, S. J., at a nuptial mass in St. Mary's chapel, Boston college.

Miss Helen Lee, sister of the bride, was maid of honor while Paul Worthington of Weymouth was a cousin of the bridegroom, was best man. The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Mary Lee of 7 Glenrose road, Dorchester, while Mr. Hurley, a former member of the House of Representatives, is a son of Timothy J. and Catherine A. Hurley of 38 Glenrose road, Dorchester.

157 FIGHT FOR SEATS IN COUNCIL

A total of 157 candidates today embarked on a free-for-all battle for 22 seats in the Boston City Council.

With the deadline for filing nomination papers in the coming November election passed, it was found that 25 other candidates seek posts on the school committee.

An interesting battle looms in Ward 2, Charlestown, where James J. Mellen, former councilor, will try to unseat Councilor William J. Galvin, seeking re-election.

City Councilor Clement A. Norton of Hyde Park will desert the council body to try for a place on the school committee. Because of his lengthy experience in politics, he is considered one of the strongest of the outside candidates.

Patrick J. Foley of South Boston, and Joseph C. White of Mt. Vernon st., Beacon Hill, are the only two school committeemen seeking re-election. Chairman Henry J. Smith announced some time ago that he would not be a candidate again.

War 'Will Crack Creative Minds'

Strain of the European war will result in "cracking" of many creative minds among civilian artists and research men and cause a stop-gap to creative thought "that will affect the civilized world."

Such is the belief of Sir Frederick G. Banting, M. D., of the University of Toronto—co-discoverer of the value of insulin in treating diabetes—expressed in an interview here before addressing the convention of the supreme council, Scottish Rite, 33rd Degree Masons.

"A musician cannot compose an opera when there is fear of an air raid every minute," Sir Frederick declared.

"With the uncertainties of war serving to bottle up the products of these creative minds, many of them will crack."

"There will be an incidence of mental disorders, because always it is the person of highly sensitive nature who is more subject to these influences."

Sen. Glass Stricken With Bronchitis

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (INS)—Senator Carter Glass (D.) of Virginia, 81-year-old former Secretary of the Treasury, is suffering from an attack of bronchitis, his attending physician said.

Glass attended the brief sessions of the Senate Monday and yesterday, but was put to bed after returning from yesterday's session. His condition is not serious, Dr. W. A. Bloedorn, attending physician said, but he advised quiet because of Senator Glass' age.

MISTRIAL IN FLOOD CASE

BATTLEBORO, Vt., Sept. 28—A mistrial was declared in the trial of five cases brought against the Bellows Falls Hydro-Electric Corporation following the 1936 floods. One of the jurors told the court an unidentified person attempted to influence his decision in favor of the plaintiffs, five landowners seeking $70,000 damages on the contention their property had been damaged by improper operation of the company's dams.

LEFTIST EDITORS WHACK HICKS, EX-HARVARD TUTOR

That Granville Hicks, former Harvard tutor and admitted Communist, has lost favor completely with ex-editorial associates on the staff of the "New Masses," leftist magazine, is indicated in a denunciation of him in the current issue of the magazine, due on the stands tomorrow.

His resignation from the staff, due, he declared, to the magazine's failure to withdraw support from Stalin after the Nazi-Soviet alliance, is termed "ironical and regrettable."

His retirement is ironical, the magazine states, in that he should quit at a time when the basic policies of the magazine are being corroborated by world events.

It is regrettable, the publication continues, because "Hicks is not one of those who thoroughly understood the ideas they espoused." Coincidentally with the release of the blast, the Harvard Crimson, also due tomorrow, will point out, editorially, that last year Hicks was the Communist party's fair-haired boy, and was repeatedly lauded for his defense of his beliefs. The change in attitude, the Crimson states, is representative of "amazing intellectual gymnastics."

Hicks, who was not reappointed this year, is said to be "resting" at Grafton, N. Y., and preparing a detailed explanation of his resignation for the New Republic.

Snite Doctor Dies in Chicago

Dr. LeRoy A. Luce, 59, of Marlboro st., Back Bay, whose renown as a healer in cases of infantile paralysis resulted in his being called to Chicago to treat Fred Snite, Jr., died in that city today, according to word received in Boston.

Born in Randolph, Vt., Dr. Luce came to Boston as a newsboy and worked his way through Tufts College and Tufts Medical School, and for over 30 years practiced medicine in Boston.

He invented a sine-wave machine to treat infantile paralysis that had such success he was requested to treat young Snite, whose case had attracted world-wide attention.

He was not married and is survived by a niece, Mrs. Agnes Fuller of Boston, who is now in Chicago.

Dever's Aide Takes Bride

A neighborhood romance culminated today in the marriage of Miss Margaret Mary Lee to John E. Hurley, for the past four years secretary to Atty-Gen. Paul A. Dever.

Miss Lee, daughter of Mrs. John J. Lee, and Hurley, whose parents are Mrs. and Mrs. Timothy Hurley, have been neighbors on Glenrose rd., Dorchester, since their childhood. They plan to take up their residence there after a wedding trip to New York, Washington and the World Series.

The couple was united in St. Mary's Chapel, Boston College, by the Rev. Edward Finnegan, S. J. Hurley was a graduate of Boston College in the class of 1930.

The ceremony was followed by a reception at the Sheraton hotel. Among the 200 guests at the chapel were Atty-Gen. Dever and his sister, Miss Marie Dever.

The best man was Paul J. Worthington of South Weymouth, a cousin of the bridegroom. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Helen J. Lee.

Pay to Jobless Shows Drop

Unemployment compensation payments in Massachusetts declined last week, statistics showed today. For the week ending Sept. 26, $349,072 was paid out, compared with payments of $466,929 the previous week.

For the current year to date $14,841,600 has been distributed, while $21,178,013 was distributed during the corresponding period last year. Continued claims last week showed a reduction from 48,302 to 44,533.

Duck Quacks Arouse Newton

With the sandman in their eyes, residents on the shores or Crystal Lake, Newton Center, complained weekly today to Acting Recreation Commissioner Reginald Brown of Newton that quacking ducks on the lake are becoming pretty awful.

Early each morning the dozen or more ducks—who own them, if anybody, appears to be a mystery—wakes the shore dwellers from their fine slumbers.

Well, Acting Commissioner Brown's department has charge of the beach at the lake, but the Metropolitan District Commission has jurisdiction over the water.

So Brown wrote a letter to the commission, asking that an investigation be launched.

Names Crandell To CPA Board

J. Chester Crandall of Salem was named by Governor Saltonstall today to a place on the State board of registration of certified accountants.

He will succeed Henry T. Hartmere of Boston, whose term of office has expired.

Crandall is a former president of the Massachusetts Society of Certified Public Accountants.

At the same time that he submitted Crandell's appointment to the executive council today for confirmation, the Governor also submitted reappointment of Frederic H. Fay of Boston as a member of the State planning board.

Hunt Oil Royalty Broker

Circulars asking for the arrest of Arthur G. Thurman, alleged principal in a reputed swindle through which he and others are said to have mulcted the public of approximately $110,000 in the sale of bogus oil royalties, were sent out today by local government authorities.

Thurman, whose real name is said to be George M. Saunders, was according to the circulars, at the head of the Commonwealth Loan and Investment Co., which sold the royalties, and he, personally, is said to have sold three leases to Claire Windsor, ex-screen star.

Miss Windsor appeared here some months ago to testify before the grand jury which indicted him, and two others.

He once lived, it was said, at Longwood Towers, Brookline, and on Ocean rd., South Portland, Me.

Others indicted with him are Joseph A. Lincoln, of Needham, and Jesse J. Levinson, of Brookline, both of whom are awaiting trial.

Long Hits Tobin Tax Figures

State Tax Commissioner Henry F. Long took exception today to figures submitted to Boston taxpayers by Mayor Tobin.

"These (Mayor Tobin's) figures do not reflect the truth," Commissioner Long flatly charged.

His criticism was directed at Mayor Tobin's claim that the state tax rate assessed on Boston for 1939 was $4.85, compared to $2.53 in 1938.

"This year's total state tax is $18,000,000, compared to $15,000,000 in 1938, and my understanding is that Boston's ratio is the same as last year," Long said.

Legion Business Session to Act on Neutrality Today

By JAMES F. McENANEY

CHICAGO, Sept. 27—The American Legion went into business sessions here today to act on a "pronouncement" demanding that Congress continue in session during the European crisis, but side-stepping specific recommendation for neutrality legislation.

Policy framework placed such a solution before delegates after meeting all night in considering neutrality and national preparedness.

The most serious deliberations of the 21st annual convention began immediately after 100,000 Legionnaires had marched for 12 hours through streets thronged with a million people.

Although not starting until late in the day, the Massachusetts delegation—one of the largest in the parade—were cheered to an echo over the three-mile route.

Gov. Saltonstall, clad in Legion uniform, led the Bay State delegation.

Mayor Tobin also marched the parade route, one of the few in the delegation in street clothes. The young mayor was given a rousing cheer at Soldier Field, where the parade broke up.

But today the men of the last World War were bent on keeping America out of another.

Ray Murphy of Iowa, past national commander and chairman of the convention foreign relations committee, said all phases of neutrality would be acted on in convention at today's sessions.

The "pronouncement" read: "The American Legion views with greatest concern the apparently widespread belief that this nation must inevitably become involved in the present neutrality conflict," the pronouncement read.

"We not only believe that this nation need not become involved, but insist and demand that the President and the Congress pursue a policy that while preserving the sovereignty and dignity of this nation will prevent involvement in this conflict."

"The American Legion has always strenuously advocated that this nation pursue a policy of neutrality and peace. In the present world crisis world conditions may change so rapidly that a pronouncement by the American Legion at this time on specific legislation may be wholly inadequate in the near future."

William Green, president of the A. F. of L., and one of several speakers, told the Legionnaires that participation of the United States in a foreign war would jeopardize the principles of freedom and democracy.

First Refugees At Harvard

Escaped from the seething cauldron of war-torn Europe, 13 refugees from greater Germany today arrived at Harvard University to take up their studies under the refugee scholarships established last year with the raising of $30,000 at the university.

The youths, six of whom are Czechs, six Austrians, and three German, are an advance guard, chosen from 170 applicants because of their academic ability and their need of financial aid. Many of the applications were smuggled to Harvard authorities through underground channels, said to have mailed them direct would have endangered the safety of the boys and their families.

At least a score more refugee students are expected within the next few weeks, but disruption of communications with Germany has made the numbers uncertain, Harvard authorities said.

Mercury Jump To Follow Rain

A rainy night, followed by clearing skies and rising temperatures tomorrow, was the weatherman's promise for Boston today, as northern New England was covered with a blanket of snow.

Snow was still falling in sections of Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire as a chill drizzle fell over eastern Massachusetts and a bank of showery clouds hung over the western part of the state.

The wind was scheduled to remain in the east, varying tomorrow toward the north as the mercury was expected to crawl upward. The temperature sank to 45 last night, five degrees above 1887's low record.

FAKE MOVIE SCOUT TELLS COURT HOW HE SLEW GIRL

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Sept. 27 (AP)—Charles Jefferson, 29, admitted from the witness stand in his murder trial today that he beat pretty Frances Dunn, Miami high school girl, to death in a secluded spot near Boca Raton.

He testified that Jean Bolton, Frances' schoolmate, watched in horror as he struck the 17-year-old girl on the head with a hammer, then fired one shot from a pistol into her body.

STORIES DIFFER

Jefferson's testimony was in direct conflict with the story told by Miss Bolton yesterday. She said she first learned of the Dunn girl's death when her battered body was found two days later.

The prisoner—facing the state's effort to send him to the electric chair—said he hit Frances several times with a hammer when she refused to join in a scheme to take a kidnapping and win publicity to further Jean's desire for a movie career.

"I went back to the car and got the gun," he continued. "I came back and fired it. Frances fell back just sitting, leaning on her arms. She started jerking. I'd never seen anybody die before."

INDIVATES GIRL

"Jean Bolton had nothing to do with the killing, did she?" asked Defense Attorney Jack Salisbury.

"No. Nothing whatever. She just stood there with her hands over her face."

"She said: 'I'm in terrible trouble.'"

"I said: 'No, you aren't. I did it.'"

It was the first testimony suggesting that the slaying occurred in the presence of Jean, who testified yesterday she and Frances were lured from their Miami homes on the promise that Jefferson, posing as a movie scout, would win them fame and fortune.

U. S. Opens Big Spy Hunt in New England

Official admissions that government agencies here are working at top speed to thwart spying and all subversive activities came from U. S. Atty. Edmund J. Brandon today in public acknowledgement of a flood of letters and telegrams from citizens throughout New England reporting the movements of suspicious persons.

"These letters are not from cranks," said Atty. Brandon. "They are from tried and true citizens, and I want them all to know we are most grateful."

Telephone calls, it was said, average as many as 25 a day, coming from persons in all walks of life and reporting every kind of suspicious activity.

Among the activities reported were suspicious telephone conversations, activities of bands and suspicious short-wave broadcasts.

In the last-named field, it was said, a checkup is being made of every short-wave sender in New England to prevent sending of information to submarine raiders.

Check is also being made on supplies of fuel oil and provisions. Brandon pointed out that laws already exist to cope with the situation in that all engaged in any kind of work for a foreign government must register, with penalties for failure to do so.

'THE RAINS CAME' OPENS AT MET TOMORROW

Louis Bromfield's powerful best seller, "The Rains Came," has been translated to the screen by Twentieth Century-Fox and Metropolitan Theater patrons may see it for the first time tomorrow.

Tomorrow's unreeling will mark the production's New England premiere.

Myrna Loy, Tyrone Power and George Brent are cast in the leading roles in this stirring story of human emotions at the breaking point as nature's untamed forces ravage the earth. Miss Loy portrays the amorous Lady Esketh; Tyrone Power, the romantic Major Ianna Saff; and George Brent, the world-weary Tom Ransome.

In important supporting roles are Brenda Joyce, the studio's newest discovery; Nigel Bruce, Maria Ouspenskaya, Joseph Schildkraut, Jane Darwell, Marjorie Rambeau, Henry Travers and H. B. Warner. Hollywood's topflight director, Clarence Brown was at the megaphone. Philip Dunne and Julien Josephson wrote the screen play.

The second feature, "Stop, Look and Love," is a comedy romance co-starring Jean Rogers and William Frawley, and featuring Robert Kellard, Eddie Collins and Minna Gombell.

NEW CLARE BOOTHE PLAY READY FOR BROADWAY

The indefatigable Clare Boothe, who authored "The Women" and "Kiss the Boys Goodbye," will have a new play, opening on Broadway next month.

It is "Margin for Error," and is said not to fall into the classification of her enormous comedy successes but to be a comedy-melodrama of particular timeliness in relation to world events.

The forthcoming Boothe play will be produced under the auspices of Richard Aldrich and Richard Myers Otto L. Preminger will direct Donald Oenslager will design the scenery.

Announced for the cast are Bert Lytell, Bramwell Fletcher, Sam Levene, Elspeth Eric, Leif Erickson, Louis Hector and Philip Coolidge.

'GOLDEN BOY' OPENS ON LOEW'S SCREENS SATURDAY

BARBARA STANWYCK and Adolph Menjou in "Golden Boy," opening Saturday at Loew's State and Orpheum.

WILLIAM HOLDEN, NEW STAR, LIVED FILM ROLE

Of young William Holden, unknown a few months ago and today the star of Columbia's "Golden Boy," opening Saturday on Loew's State and Orpheum screens, Director Rouben Mamoulian has this to say:

"The best thing about him is that he had never been in pictures. He had everything to learn and nothing to unlearn."

"I made no effort to teach him. I was frank with him, I confided in him from the beginning just what we were trying to do, and I think I gained his confidence and his understanding."

"He knew he was expected to live Golden Boy. We read the script together. He read his part, and I read the others. I made certain that he understood just what Golden Boy was feeling and thinking. I told him just to be natural when he went before the camera."

"I had Holden move to an athletic club while we were making the picture to give him a complete change of atmosphere. To help him forget he was from the home of William Holden in South Pasadena and feel he was from the home of 'Golden Boy' on the New York East Side..."

Barbara Stanwyck shares starring honors with Holden and Adolphe Menjou. Miss Stanwyck plays the "dame from Newark" and Menjou, the haubitten fight manager.

The supporting cast is headed by Joseph Calia, Lee J. Cobb, Sam Levene, Edward Brophy, Beatrice Blinn, William Strauss and Frank Jenks.

"Miracles for Sale," the companion feature, is based on the best-selling novel, "Death From a Top Hat," Robert Young and Florence Rice are co-starring in this film, abounding with magic and spiritualistic manifestations.

Hollywood Paragraphs

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 27—Hedy Lamarr proved herself a real heroine when the Gene Markey boat was stranded in Catalina along with the Frank Butlers, the John Fords, the Errol Flynns and others who were tossed about the sea by the terrific storm.

Hedy stayed up all night making coffee for the seamen and cooked breakfast herself. All of the picture folk who were in the storm have an idea now what those poor people on the Athenia suffered when the ship was torpedoed. The Warner studio was fit to be tied when Errol Flynn sent word that he and Lili were stranded at the Isthmus on his sail boat and might not get back in time for the preview of "The Private Lives of Elizabeth and Essex." Errol hates premieres! You don't suppose by any chance he could have conspired with the elements to keep him over there?

HOLLYWOOD NOTES: One of Betty Grable's close friends hints that as soon as the blonde film actress is legally free from Jackie Coogan, she will wed Artie Shaw, the popular band leader. Betty met Shaw, the idol of so many of the younger set, after she and Jackie decided to part, and it is really a romance, according to one of her intimates. She is now in New York keeping a stage engagement.

Mickey Rooney is turning the charm on Barbara Douglas, a new bud, at Victor Hugos.

Kay Wray is expected back in town, Thursday after a summer in stock.

Lots of interest is being shown in Ingrid Bergman, the Swedish actress in "Intermezzo."

The Don Ameche baby, born prematurely July 27 was able to leave the hospital and be taken home much to the delight of his older brothers.

Miss Cornell Here Monday In New Play

Four of America's top flight dramatists, one of the theater's most brilliant stars, and the leading director of the current Broadway stage, have pooled their talents in "No Time For Comedy," which comes to the Wilbur Theater for a two-week engagement, starting next Monday night.

Maxwell Anderson, S. N. Behrman, Elmer Rice and Robert E. Sherwood are the playwrights involved in the production. Their Mr. Behrman wrote the comedy, and the others have helped out with suggestions and ideas since the piece was in the rehearsals stage.

Star of "No Time For Comedy" is the beloved Katharine Cornell, too long absent from a local stage. Well remembered—and admired—are her previous successes, "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," "Romeo and Juliet" and "Candida," to enumerate but a few.

As director of "No Time For Comedy," the theater program will list the name of Guthrie McClintic, husband of Miss Cornell, and perhaps the foremost producer-director of the American theater.

KEEP U. S. OUT OF WAR —Be Neutral—

PEACE is the prayer of the world. It is the daily prayer of the peoples of England, France, Germany, Italy, Russia and America alike, irrespective of emotional bias.

This prayer, this soul-deep wish for peace on earth, is today incarnated in the heroic and spiritual figure of POPE PIUS THE TWELFTH.

He alone today seems to be, in his impartiality, in his almost daily appeals to the warring nations to make peace, the HOPE OF THE WORLD.

In reporting the new Belgian ambassador's visit to the Vatican the other day, the New York Times' dispatch from Rome said:

"There could be no doubt of the depth of the Pope's sorrow as, seated in his throne, he spoke to the Ambassador in the presence of the court.

"Recalling his own steps in behalf of peace, the Pope said that up to the last moment before the outbreak he had not omitted doing all that he could by praying, by public exhortations and by reiterated confidential steps to warn the leaders of the danger and to induce them to loyal and peaceful negotiations on the basis of justice and love, which alone are solid and lasting.

POPE PIUS XII
Prays for World Peace

"Justice, the Pope explained, should be granted to strong and weak powers alike; it should be honorable for all to protect every one's vital rights and to safeguard the tranquillity of nations; and it should be accompanied by love, because only in this way could rights be permanently safeguarded, never to be forgotten and violated again."

In the midst of the wolves of Europe with what a genuine touch of the sublime the grieving Pontiff appears in the following picture of Pius which the press gives in a Vatican City dispatch:

"Pope Pius is sleeping on the floor that he may participate more deeply in the world's suffering, a reliable Vatican source reported today. He also was reported to be fasting.

"Those close to him since his coronation last Spring assert that he appears to be a changed man, looking more frail and saintly than before. It is reported that he has cut his sleep to a few hours a night as a result of his almost constant prayers for peace."

"The warring nations of the world would do well to listen to these appeals of the Pope for peace, and all neutral nations should support—should actively and earnestly support—the efforts of this great spiritual leader.

For he appeals for a peace not made around a wooden table but made in the CONSCIENCES and HEARTS of the peoples—who seek a lasting peace on earth and good will toward ALL MEN, MASSACHUSETTS DOCTORS look with increasing anxiety upon the number of graduates of European medical schools who seek to practise in this State.

Before the outbreak of hostilities abroad, more than twelve thousand American young men went each year to Italy, Germany, France and Britain to become doctors.

Complicating the problem are refugee members of the profession who, denied the privilege of continuing their work in such countries as Germany and Austria, are seeking to establish themselves here.

The probable solution will be the writing of new laws that will bar European-trained doctors from Bay State medical examinations unless they can prove that their training has been comparable to that obtainable at Harvard, Boston University, Tufts, and other approved institutions.

TRANSPORTATION PROGRESS interests New England, concluding a highly successful recreational season and looking forward to a better one.

Prior to January, 1935, travel time between Chicago and the Twin Cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul ranged from nine to eleven hours.

During that year, two of the three railroads serving those cities put on high speed, light weight trains which covered the 431 miles in six hours and 40 minutes.

The reward was immediate. In spite of the fact that the older trains continued to operate, the new trains picked up two thousand passengers a day.

It is logical to suppose that duplication of the Middle Western plan by New England railroads would not only benefit this entire section but would also solve the roads' own problems.

Unfathomable

BENEATH the surface of the sea . . . goes on eternal tragedy . . . and yet above no one may know . . . the drama that unfolds below.

The man of character may grieve . . . but wears his heart not on his sleeve . . . Of deep emotions scarce a trace . . . is seen in his impassive face . . . A man of sorrows, he may be . . . unfathomable as the sea.

Human Side of News -1-

By EDWIN C. HILL

WE GET WORD that the ghosts have quit walking in Pepperidge Hall, mansion of the late Christopher Robert at Oakdale, L. I., recently purchased by the Royal Fraternity of Master Metaphysicians. The metaphysicians are squaring away to restore the old splendors of the castle, expanding its 63 rooms to 80, and that naturally means the eviction of any lingering ghosts.

Christopher Robert committed suicide when his actress bride refused to live in his cavernous dream house, and she died seven years later. Weeds choked the courts and fountains, the great vine over the swimming pool died, the wind moaned through broken window panes and even prowling small boys began avoiding the place. But now the ghosts are laid, and gone will be the "Forsaken Garden" where "wet waves and spent winds labor, in troubles dreams of dreams."

On January 13, 1938, the metaphysicians purchased the estate of the late W. K. Vanderbilt, on which about $7,000,000 had been spent on house, grounds and furnishings. James B. Schafer, brisk, affable and enterprising head of the cult, got it for around $350,000. That would seem like a nice deal, but that's just about the current writdown on all the "throne, power and dominions" of yesterdays, unless things take a turn for the better.

EDWIN C. HILL
"Ghosts Have Quit Walking"

The Vanderbilt mansion, one of America's most beautiful estates, had been lost in the shuffle in some fast real estate deals, and was once owned by Dutch Schultz, the gangster. The gold room—walls and ceilings covered with gold leaf—had been Mr. Vanderbilt's special pride and it cost him a small fortune. During the Dutch Schultz occupancy it was painted white. The paint has been removed and the gold leaf perfectly restored.

Fountains, swimming pools, tennis courts and the $30,000 rug in the main living room have all been restored, and the completely refurbished mansion is now "Peace Haven," a week-end or permanent residential retreat for the metaphysicians.

PEACE HAVEN is an interesting blend of business enterprise and mysticism which is possibly unique in America, a blend which finds its clearest manifestation in Mr. Schafer.

A native of North Dakota, he was in the automobile business for ten years, and was a successful automobile promotion sales expert. Previously he had worked in Canadian lumber camps and engaged in many small business enterprises.

Twenty-five years ago he became interested in metaphysics and became one of the country's leading expounders of doctrines tracing back to the Rosicrucians. Like Father Divine—and he does not seem to mind the comparison—he says money is the last thing in the world he has to worry about.

He is an urbane, well-tailored, big-town citizen, fervent and happy in the belief that "all things will be added unto you" once you find the way of salvation.

His growing following seems to attest the yearning of multitudes of people for something to believe in, at a time when more and more people evidently believe in less and less.

-1- MY DAY

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Sept. 27—The last time I came through Huntington was toward the end of a very long day's motoring and my recollection of the city was somewhat vague.

This morning, however, after a press conference at nine o'clock, Mrs. Gibson, Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Long came for me and we drove past Marshall College, where Mr. Dwight Morrow was once president. We saw the site of a new housing project. Then we went on our way to Red House.

The Charleston, W. Va., Business and Professional Women's Club is sponsoring a shop in this government project to encourage the women to learn various handicrafts. This will be useful in making articles for their own homes and at the same time they may learn to make a variety of things for sale.

I WISH more people in Charleston would take an interest in their government homestead, for there is so much that can be done for these communities if people nearby lend a hand. I have never felt that the government should be expected to carry the burden alone.

The government inaugurated an experiment, by which it was hoped a way to a better standard of living for a great many people could be found.

Now the nearby communities have an opportunity to show their interest and help the government. They can assist by getting industries to move in near these localities to give work, or they can find work for these people in existing industries nearby. Their homes and their gardens will give them an added measure of security.

Like all government undertakings, this one is dependent on the cooperation of the neighborhood, to be a real success.

FIRST LADY VISITS YOUNG CITIZEN
West Virginia Motor Tour Proves Delightful

I AM GLAD to find the Business and Professional Women's Club of Charleston starting the interest ball a-rolling. I hope they will find an outlet in Charleston and in neighboring towns for some of the things which the women and young people on the project are learning to make. On the way back we stopped at the Morris Memorial Crippled Children's hospital. The WPA is furnishing the labor for these buildings and they are a monument of which the workers may well be proud.

SENATOR LUCAS GETS HEAVIEST MAIL

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, Sept. 27—"Senator Scott W. Lucas of Illinois hit the jack-pot for neutrality letters last Thursday," a Federal office report at the New Sherman's. "He received 15,000 letters—the heaviest mail in the Senate" . . . "Yes, it's true," George Blanehine confirms at Savoy-Plaza. "I'm doing a show with Vernon Duke. Lynn Root has written the book for it" . . . "The Hay office has approved Charles Brackett's title-card forward for Garbo's comedy, 'Ninotchka,'" a director reveals at Armando's. "It reads: 'This story takes place in Paris in the days when a siren was not an alarm' . . ."

"LEW BROWN volunteered to produce a show—like Irving Berlin did in '17—for Canada, with war veterans participating, and all the receipts going to Canada's war-chest," an editor relates at the Versailles. "When a Montreal paper queried Brown about it, Lew said it was off, on advice of counsel. 'What's your lawyer got to do with this?' Brown was asked. He explained: 'My lawyer said I'd be violating the neutrality law' . . . "Lester Stiefel, the tennis star, tells Teddy Powell at the Famous Door, "when the war canceled our European tour" . . . "I guess Dad will have to miss his annual trip to Florida this year," Joseph P. Kennedy, Jr., assures at the Stork. "Of course we had an exciting time—especially listening to the newspaper men complain about their censored stories."

"AFTER Undersecretary of Commerce Ed Noble crowned Senator Overton's daughter queen of the President's Regatta," a reporter informs at the Swing Club, "Earl Godwin, the White House correspondent, told him: 'The revolution's here—when a queen's crowned by a Noble' . . . "Watch for another blow-off," an attorney advises at Leon and Eddie's, "when the officers of the National Lawyers' Guild meet next month."

"ROBERT IRWIN, the triple slayer of the Gedrons, has been removed from his cell at Dannemora," a prison official informs at Sardi's. "He went berserk and has been placed in solitary—in a cage" . . . "Lou Nova still nursing his battered face, enters Moore's and laments: 'I don't mind losing except to a bum like that' . . . "Hrör Dahlberg, head of Celotex, flew back from Washington with his wife," a pilot reports at the Tavern. "They noticed George Somery, who once had been their private pilot, operating the plane. 'I don't work for this airline,' Somery explained, 'but I arranged this—because I remembered this was your anniversary.'"

GRETA GARBO

EXCLUSIVE: That Boston night club aimed at the so-called "carriage trade" and no long promised by one or another enterprising promoter is about to burst into being . . . Hints that such a place was in the making have been carried here from time to time, but it was lack of facts rather than an attempt to be mysterious that kept the story down to hints . . . Here are the facts . . . Zero Hereford is the name of the spot, and the significance of the name lies in the allegation that there is actually an address in Hereford street numbered No. zero . . . Though the title may sound negative, there are very positive "names" connected with the new joint.

ONE IS AL ZIMMERMAN, the band leader, who has turned impresario and cafe-operator . . . Another is Virginia Pheiss, one of the Brookline society family of beauties . . . Virginia will start rehearsing this week with a Zimmerman band of eight pieces, for which she will be the vocalist . . . (Now if she can only sing.) Virginia isn't the only post-deb listed in the ranks of prospective vocalists for Zero Hereford . . . But until the others reach the rehearsal stage in their careers, we have decided to withhold news of their ambitions . . . This new supper-room is going to have "sponsors"—a new and unique angle on local night-club operation . . . John Roosevelt is named as one, and Miss Martha Chapin, William E. Chamberlain, John C. Storey, George Von L. Meyer, Jr., Sheldon H. Fairbanks and Herbert W. Jackson are others described as "sponsors" . . . Frank Jenkins, the erstwhile radio editor, who is handling public relations for the spot . . . October 4 is the date of the opening . . . In the Hollywood manner, there may be klieg lights and searchlights prowling the skies for the premiere.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: Before Lou Brems became interested in politics and was rewarded for his interest in Mayor Tobin's future with a job of "city greeter," the handsome Lou was an actor . . . He was good at it, too . . . He was so good that Mr. Brems marshaled enough self-confidence to blossom out as the only native East Bostonian to sport a waxed mustache . . . Lou was a vodevillian, and the name of the act was Brems, Fitz and the Murphy Brothers—first billing for Lou . . . The act was a "standard," and had its weeks in the bigtime . . . Over the years the boys have gone their separate ways, and it has been some time since their repertory of songs, dances and chatter have been available to a grateful public.

THE ACT will be re-united tonight, the principals wearing their sailor uniforms and white hats . . . It seems that in going their separate ways, one of the partners, Billy Murphy, went into the hotel business . . . Recently he took over the famous Bass Necks House with a gentleman named Joseph Killaran, and the hotel will open this evening under its new auspices . . . Dan Creadon, who used to play the same bills with Brems, Fitz and the Murphy Brothers, Benny Drohan, ditto, and Stephen J. Hughes, who has gone far in the city service and is now director of municipal employment, will be among the entertainers tonight.

JEAN ARTHUR WILL SUB FOR BETTE

By Louella O. Parsons

Jean Arthur

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 27 Bette Davis is really having herself a time in the East and a vacation she richly deserves, for she made four pictures last year, a large number for an actress of her popularity. She has told her bosses she won't return for a few more weeks and because Hal Wallis is eager to get "We Shall Meet Again" started, he has given Bette another assignment. She will star in Somerset Maugham's story, "Up at the Villa," and I have an idea that Edmund Gledhill, with whom she loves to work, will direct her.

Hal has talked with Jean Arthur about doing "We Shall Meet Again," originally bought for Bette, and it is likely that Jean will accept, for, as far as I know, Columbia has no story ready for her, and that is the only thing that would keep her from the Warner studio at this time.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: David Niven leaves October 10 for England, not because he has been called, but because he wants to do his part; Rodin Rathbone, Basil's son, leaves early tomorrow morning for Canada to enlist. Mrs. Basil is going East to meet her niece, who is returning from France; Andy Devine, mayor of Van Nuys, and Richard Arden, mayor of Sunland, have sent out invitations to a big premier of "Tropico Fury." The whole of San Fernando Valley will turn out, and there are promises of a parade with plenty of attention wherever she goes, will stay idle at M-G-M. Her bosses will cash in on the publicity she received in "Dancing Co-Ed" and start work within the next two weeks on "Twenty Little Working Girls." Mervyn Leroy took along a script of "Today's Girl" for Lana, but she will do "Twenty Little Working Girls" first, starting in two weeks. In Los Angeles, the title "Twenty Little Working Girls" means a group of socialites who are well-known here, but M-G-M's plot has nothing to do with them. Their story is about a chorus of twenty night club girls and one of them, Lana Turner, studies to be a lady. The story is by Bradford Ropes, with the adaptation by Arthur Freed.

JANE BRYAN with pretty girls and all the other valley mayors, including Hugh Herbert, Bing Crosby, Al Johnson, Mischa Auer on hand to greet the natives, meanwhile I reckon the "Elizabeth and Essex" gala preview will have to go on without these valley luminaries. Tickets are at a premium for the Warner preview, now that the heat wave has subsided; they shot around Jane Bryan and Eddie Albert today while they, with Jean Parker, were trying to get back from the isthmus following, the storm.

THE RED-HEADED TURNER GAL who always attracts plenty of attention wherever she goes, will stay idle at M-G-M. DAILY STORY

Love or Honor?

I WAS BORN and raised in the West, as were my two best friends, Bob and Mary.

Bob and I took Mary to her first dances. When we went away to the State University we asked her and her mother to every event of importance. We were always writing to her and reading the letters aloud before we mailed them.

Needless to say, both of us fell in love with Mary, and she with us. Bob was better looking than I, had more personality, seemed to have the greater possibilities for success. It was only natural that he should be the winner and take Mary to the altar.

I WAS the best man. Of course, I wanted to refuse when he asked me, but that would have made the situation worse. As it was, we pretended that the best man wasn't in love with the bride. And we did our best to ignore the three-cornered love affair that was ended.

I went into the foreign service and was away for several years.

Home I came on furlough and was soon in Bob's house. It was like turning back the pages of a book. The love that I thought dead was rekindled.

Bob had been doing very well, and he and Mary had a very comfortable home. The years had been kind, and both of them looked better, more healthy than ever.

We talked about the thousands of things we had in common—literature of which all three of us were fond, old acquaintances, family matters. I was especially delighted and flattered to learn that they had named their baby son for me.

While I was there, Bob was called away for several days.

ONE NIGHT, the night before Bob was expected back, Mary and I talked about the old days before her marriage. And, as though unable to fight the desire I had long since succumbed to, Mary was soon in my arms.

She stayed there only a moment. Bob was my best friend and when he came home next day I was still his best friend.

I shall never see Bob again, and I know I shall never see Mary. I never loved anyone else. I never will love anyone else. I'm sure of that. But a man doesn't steal his best friend's wife!

For—and it is the most important lesson Life has taught me—honor can be as heavenly as love.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

WHAT A FUSS we make over our Ideals—and how sure we are that they are infallible. Secretly, we measure all new acquaintances by this private pattern of perfection. We give them, indeed, almost a sacred rating; regard them as Moses must have regarded the Ten Commandments—as a sort of divine tip on righteousness.

And no blow demoralizes us as much as the shattering of our Ideals . . . nor is any enemy as hated as the monster who causes that shattering. We may suffer poverty, accident, sickness, abuse, yet pull ourselves together again. But if someone wrecks those shining illusions we abandon ourselves to hopeless bitterness.

QUESTION any derelict, and nearly always you will find that he traces his downfall to the "LOSS OF HIS IDEALS."

Once life seemed a splendid crusade and he it's bravest crusader. Then something or someone smashed that vision by some ugly act and the world was never the same again. For of what use is life if one's Ideals are gone?

Why struggle if you believe in nothing, hope for nothing, trust no one?

That's the derelict's story, and he sticks to it. Nor is he usually blamed.

To the contrary, most of us sympathize with him—even admire his spirit, and consider such surrender the proof of a noble, sensitive spirit.

As a code for cowards and cry-babies, this Broken Ideals theory is a honey . . . but otherwise it's tommyrot.

There's nothing divine about our Ideals. They are self-created standards, and like all other personal notions, are no bigger or better than the intelligence from which they spring.

NORMAL PEOPLE expect to change, discard and outgrow their Ideals as they do all other outmoded possessions. Actually, it isn't one's soul that suffers when an Ideal is wrecked, but one's CONSCIENCE.

Nine-tenths of our Ideals are simply pattycake pictures of THE WAY WE'D LIKE THINGS TO BE—and have nothing whatever to do with real life or immortal truth.

Then we smash up against reality, and our pampered childish souls can't take it. We're terrified and furious . . . suffering really, from a six-year-old tantrum. But this we won't admit. INSTEAD, WE SAVE OUR FACES BY MAKING A GREAT TRAGEDY OUT OF IT.

BRINGING UP FATHER

Fifth Avenue in the Wide Open Spaces

BRADSHAW Good Gains Shown In State Industry

Massachusetts scored some excellent industrial gains during August... Gains, it should be noted, wholly independent of war stimulation... Improved domestic business conditions alone get, and deserve, the credit...

INDIVIDUAL... Reports of 1809 establishments to the State Department of Labor and Industries tell the story of improvement in the survey just released... Both employment and payrolls increased in the pre-war betterment of Bay State conditions... The first showed a gain of 3.1 per cent over July this year and a jump of 7.9 per cent over August a year ago... Payroll comparisons for the same period reveal gains of 2.9 and 11.8 per cent respectively... Increases of more than 5 per cent were shown by six industries in both items... They were boots and shoes, women's clothing, confectionary, dyeing and finishing textiles, jewelry and radio apparatus... The answer to present optimism is that war stimulated demand is building up on top of this existing boomlet...

BEST GRAPH... Depicting the course of prices on war moves and their connection with current events that has come to the writer's attention is presented on this page today... The old truism "that when armies march prices join the parade" is accurately portrayed... The lines on the chart, all based on Associated Press indices show the movements of every important price group... Grouped under "Industrial" are rubber, coal, petroleum, lumber, and seven other products; under "Non-Ferrous Metals," copper, lead, tin, zinc, antimony; under "Agriculture," corn, wheat, oats, rice, cotton; under "Food," eggs, sugar, cocoa, coffee, flour, lard, butter...

RAILROAD... Shares have been delivering the goods in recent sessions... Much to our gratification... Since we have so steadily boasted of them here... Beginning back about two weeks their backwardness as a group, then outstanding individual issues and finally trade and traffic advantages were pointed out to readers... As we view them now the move is really just beginning... Intervening reactions may come more frequently and will cut a bit deeper into previous gains... But on a long term basis speculation is not warranted... Rather is a policy of buying the dips to be followed... And once again the controlling thought is that in comparison with 1937 highs and carloadings much still remains for discounting...

BITS O' GOSSIP... Houdaille Hensley is the subject of warm if and when embargo is repealed bullishness... The paper companies are reported turning away bids... And emphasizing the carload lot... Smaller bids for commercial paper are hard to get accepted... And, needless to say, prices are headed up... Carloadings on New England roads are definitely on the improve... From what we hear, a shortage or two in some categories wanted quickly developed this week... Also volume has moved up fast enough recently to just about double normal figures... Which should help solve financial difficulties... There is a lot of earnings leverage in the low priced Boston & Maine issues...

U. S. BUSINESS QUIZ BARED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (INS)—Aimed to provide the most comprehensive inventory of United States business ever undertaken, "Schedules of questions to be asked the nation's business in the 1940 census" were made public today... Secretary of Commerce Hopkins, in describing the questions, said: "In these rapidly changing times it is most important that both business and government have accurate and detailed information on the American business structure."

Rails, Utilities in Favor With Buyers

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP)—Rails and utilities felt the main weight of buying in the stock market today in a shift from the recently buoyant war shares.

A mixture of moderate gains and losses resulted from diversion of emphasis to groups which had been lagging in the earlier phases of the war advance.
Profit-takers seemed to be active in stocks, motors, copper, aircraft, chemicals and miscellaneous shares prominent in the "war baby" drives to higher prices. Some dropped back for losses of a point or more.
Rail traffic expansion, continued equipment buying and increasing power use helped put the spotlight on the carrier and utility groups. Dealings in these were brisk. Turnover in the first hour totaled 880,000 shares, the largest in some time for that period.

Higher most of the time were North American, Public Service of New Jersey, Santa Fe, Great Northern preferred, Pullman, Westinghouse, Pennsylvania and Goodyear Tire.
Depressed were U. S. Steel, International Nickel, Western Union, Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft, du Pont, Union Pacific and Homestead Mining.
In the curb, a number of usually inactive shares were up 1 to 3 or more, including Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, Drivers-Harris, Midland Steel and South Penn Oil. Most stocks were only fractionally unchanged up and down.

Gold shares ran into more selling, apparently prompted by the thought mining costs may increase in war time. Rubber shares, on the other hand, showed independent strength, aided by reports of broadening demand.

U. S. EXPORTS UP 9 PER CENT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (INS)—In August, the month preceding outbreak of the European war, United States exports abroad jumped nine per cent over the preceding month and over August, 1938, the Commerce Department reported.
Though all exports showed more than usual seasonal rises, the general war commodities, including scrap iron, industrial machinery and aircraft, soared 26 per cent over the year before, to total $187,321,000, the report showed.
August exports aggregated $250,839,000, as compared with $229,629,000 in July and $230,730,000 in August, 1938. Imports also were marked by a like gain of 9 per cent for the period under comparison.

Edison to Pay $2

The directors of Boston Edison Company yesterday declared a quarterly dividend of $2 per share, payable November 1, 1939, to stockholders of record at the close of business on October 14, 1939.

Grocers Hear F. M. Archer On Trade Act

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 27—Frank M. Archer, president of the Maine Co., speaking before the State of Maine Independent Retail Grocers' Ass'n. here today, said:

"I believe that the fair trade law now on the statute books are to remain, but independent retail dealers must give greater support to those fair trade items than they have to date. They must recognize the substantial initial cost to manufacturers who register under the fair trade act, because of the large adjustments of floor stocks necessary and the substantial lowering of prices. All of which means more profit to the retail dealer and better value to the consumer."

"The independent retail dealers also should feature on sales those fair trade items over all others in their stores. The merchandising methods of the food and beverage business in the last 10 years have undergone one tremendous change. The public is demanding better quality at substantially lower prices and the dealer demands a fast moving item. Taxes, delivery costs and higher costs of ingredients due to the war, have been a great burden on food and beverage manufacturer and substantial volume increases must be obtained to justify the condition of prevailing lower prices."

Mr. Archer stressed the progress that America had made over other countries of the world in recent years and said, "America is still the best place to live in, and Maine, enjoying the reputation it does, must lead the way of encouragement and co-operation with the manufacturers under their Fair Trade laws for—as Maine goes, so goes the nation."

B. & M. REPORTS BIG PROFIT

By International News Service
A net income of $172,888.84 over and above fixed charges for the month of August was shown today in the monthly report of the Boston & Maine railroad. A deficit of $14,829.45 was reported for the same month last year.
For the first eight months of 1939, according to the report, the railroad showed a deficit of $416,880.48, compared to a deficit of $2,830,199.21 for the same period last year.

A comparison of detailed figures showed a general increase in revenues over last August.

BREWSTER SERVICES TOMORROW

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at noon for Dr. George W. Brewster, consulting surgeon at the Massachusetts General Hospital and a former member of the hospital's surgical staff. Dr. Brewster died yesterday at his home, 213 Beacon st. He had been retired from active practice since 1926. He was born in Roxbury, son of Benjamin and Annie Walrus (Emerson) Brewster, attended Roxbury Latin School and was graduated from Harvard College in 1889. Graduated from Harvard Medical School in 1892. Dr. Brewster served his internship at the Massachusetts General Hospital. He served as a member of the hospital's staff from 1901 to 1926 and in the latter year was named a member of the board of consultation.

Demand City Speed Coal to Needy Folk

An urgent appeal for immediate fuel orders for Boston welfare families was made today by State Senator John E. Kerrigan of South Boston.

In an open letter sent by special messenger to the board of overseers of public welfare, Kerrigan charged that there are "thousands of undernourished, poorly clad men, women and children huddled today in Boston in cold, damp and unheated dwellings."

The South Boston Senator demanded that the welfare overseers use their discretionary power, in absence of Mayor Tobin, and send fuel orders at once to all needy families. He suggested that welfare visitors be called from their routine duties and assigned the task of delivering the orders for coal and oil. Recipients of mothers' aid and old age assistance should also be given fuel orders, Kerrigan said.

Present inclement weather, he pointed out, has created a "dire emergency." It is the duty of the welfare overseers to meet the situation, he asserted.

Woburn Faces Payless Pay Day

Woburn city employees faced the prospect of a payless payday tomorrow as a result of Tax Commissioner Henry F. Long's decision not to approve a bond for any successor to Tax Collector Martin J. McGah until he has been legally removed from office. McGah and Mayor William E. Kane have been engaged in a feud for more than a year and recently the collector was prevented from entering his office. Michael H. McCarron, Kane's choice as acting collector, was refused the tax commissioner's approval. Property transfers cannot be made in Woburn without the collector's assistance and the threat that the city may have to default some of its notes also was reported imminent.

Scar on Thigh Wins Entertainer $5175

MALTA, Mont., Sept. 27 (AP)—Miss Goldie Browning convinced a jury she couldn't very well continue her career as a night club entertainer with a four and one half inch scar on her thigh. The jury awarded her $5175 damages against the Great Northern Railway which, she contended, was responsible for the automobile-train collision in which she was injured in 1935 at Cole, Mont. She sued for $20,175.

whom they were in touch, the bridegroom's father, an encouraging hint that lifting of the court ban on their marriage might not be impossible.

FATHER GUARDIAN

In his petition, the elder Engel described himself as "guardian of a spendthrift" and declared his son had filed marriage intentions at City Hall. His father further states in his petition:

"It is in the belief of the petitioner that Emma F. Preble intends to do whatever she possibly can to bring about a marriage between herself and Richard Frank Engel, and that, although as a matter of law the ward cannot enter into a marriage contract, the petitioner believes that Emma Preble may so harass the ward that he may feel obligated to follow her throughout the Commonwealth or outside, with the intent of going through a marriage ceremony with her. Young Engel defied his father and insisted he would be married despite his opposition.

"I signed my father as guardian over my money, but not over my love," he said.

OPPOSED MARRIAGE

Miss Preble has been living in Shawmut ave., South End, and is employed as a cashier in a restaurant. Engel left his parents' home two weeks ago and has been living in the South End. A former employee of his father's restaurant in Quincy, he is now working for a Quincy contractor.

Miss Preble, who is 28 and an attractive brunette, told of her romance with Engel in her apartment.

"Dick's family has been opposed to our marriage since we first met three years ago," Miss Preble said. "But I am willing to marry Dick under any circumstances and take a chance on him being able to support me. I'm not looking for any money his father may be holding in trust for him. We can both keep on working, and we'll get along."

Smart Set Functions

By BETTY ALDEN

A WEDDING of much interest to Boston society will be that of Frances Hovey, who has just decided upon Nov. 15th as the date for her marriage to John S. Howe. Frances is the society girl who became heiress to a priceless necklace of 93 pearls on her nineteenth birthday back in January, 1936. The pearls were a legacy from the late Miss Belle Hunt, wealthy Boston spinster.

The wedding will take place in Cohasset where Mrs. Edward Clarence Hovey of Milton, mother of the bride-to-be, has a summer home, and though Frances hasn't as yet completed her list of bridesmaids it's a safe bet that Doris Foote will be included in the group. The two girls were inseparable companions during their debutante days in 1934-35 and both are members of the Junior League and Vincent Club.

Mr. Howe is the son of James Carleton Howe of Milton. He is a member of Harvard's class of 1932 and belongs to Ilasty Pudding and Owl Clubs.

Makes Social Bow

THE NEW DEBUTANTES who have been planning and waiting all summer, will experience the first thrills of their long anticipated debutante whirl this evening when Elise Winsor makes her social bow at the first dance of the fall season.

Elise and her mother, Mrs. Alexander Winsor of Weston, will have to stand in the receiving line twice, for they have invited a large number of friends for dinner dancing at the Weston Golf Club, and additional guests are coming later in the evening for dancing. The debutante will wear an orchid corsage on her gold and white brocade gown and Mrs. Winsor has chosen a modish costume of black velvet. The debutante's brothers, Alexander Winsor, Jr., and R. H. Bancroft Winsor, head the group of twenty ushers.

Post Honeymoon Student

LIBERTY DICK, who will be married Saturday to Henry M. Winter, an author and research student, is going to keep up with her husband on academic subjects by resuming her courses at Radcliffe after her honeymoon. The petite bride-to-be was on hand bright and early to register at college yesterday. Mrs. F. Murray Forbes, Jr., Joan Riggs and Sylvia Winslow are other society girls enrolling for courses.

Debs Hunt Bargains, Too

A BARGAIN'S A BARGAIN... and society girls can't resist the attraction of buying a dress or coat at a bargain sale any more than a working gal can. Yesterday we glimpsed Esme DeMenocal, one of last winter's best dressed debs, browsing around our most popular bargain basement, looking at pocket books and evening gowns.

A few blocks away we saw golden haired Polly Keppler, who has recently joined the ranks of post deb working girls, presiding over the inexpensive hat counter of a Tremont street shop. Faith Barney was on a shopping expedition, too, looking for trousseau clothes in preparation for her marriage on October 14th to William J. Woodin of Flushing, L. I.

ELISE WINSOR, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Winsor of Weston, who will make her debut at a dinner dance at the Weston Golf Club this evening. Miss Winsor attended school in Boston and spent last winter studying in Florence, Italy.

Pop Concert For Charity

Plans are rolling gaily along for Friday evening's Pop Concert and Supper Dance at Swampscott's New Ocean House. Under the sponsorship of the North Shore Catholic Charity League.

Eleanor Noonan is to be master of ceremonies during the floor show, which will be followed by supper and dancing.

Mrs. Thomas K. McNulty of Marblehead, is general chairman of the outstanding social event, tickets for which may be obtained from Mrs. Thomas A. O'Keefe of Peabody, and table reservations are in charge of Mrs. E. J. Cullen of Danvers.

Eleanor L. Noonan of Salem is arranging the entertainment program, Dorothy Doyle... president of the League... will direct the ushers, and Mrs. John Sullivan of Beverly is looking after the patrons' list.

Also working for the success of the party are the two vice-presidents, Mrs. Felix Carr and Mrs. Thomas A. O'Keefe; Miss Marion Moriarty, recording secretary; Mrs. Frederick Cloutman, financial secretary, and Mrs. John Sullivan, treasurer.

CATHOLIC WOMEN SPEED UP DRIVE

An open meeting, in connection with the membership drive being conducted by the Massachusetts Catholic Daughters of America, will be held by Count Irma, No. 318, tomorrow evening in the Columbus Club, Pearl street, Dorchester.

There will be a musical program under the direction of Miss Mary E. McKernan, grand regent.

On the list of invited guests are Rev. Fr. Keohane, chaplain of Court Irma, Miss Kathryn M. Madden, state secretary; Miss Mary A. Healey, state treasurer; Miss Gertrude Curry, state monitor, and Mrs. John V. Ballard, national treasurer.

Dr. Eddy's Question Box

DOES FREEZING DESTROY VITAMINS? } MILK IN DIET—IS IT CONSTIPATING?

By DR. WALTER H. EDDY

Director of Good Housekeeping Bureau

Questions concerning foods, sanitation and health will be answered only if a stamped, addressed envelope accompanies your request. No exceptions can be made to this rule. Prescriptive advice can not be given, nor can food or drug samples be analyzed. Address Dr. Walter H. Eddy, 57th st. at Eighth ave., New York city.

I should appreciate it very much if you would advise me whether or not any vitamins or other food values are lost in the process of freezing foods? Mrs. S. D.

The effect of freezing on the vitamin content of foods has been very carefully studied by Dr. Carl Fellers at the Massachusetts State College at Amherst. He has reported his experiments on a wide range of freezing fruits and vegetables and these reports show that there was little, if any, vitamin destruction as a result of freezing. You Would Increase Your Vitamin Intake

Would it be possible to use cheese and eggs—even though not serving ham or bacon with them in place of meats at times and still receive the proper food value, vitamins, etc.? Mrs. H. K.

Ham and bacon are practically devoid of vitamins, although they are good sources of protein and fuel fat. The eggs and cheese would give you as much protein and fat as the meats, and, at the same time, would increase measurably your vitamin A and B intake the day you serve them.

Diet, Not Milk, Probably Guilty

We have been endeavoring to follow the findings of nutritionists and have been drinking a pint of milk, each, a day. This has proved constipating, and I wonder if you can suggest anything that can be added to the milk to counteract this? T. M. O.

I do not believe the milk is responsible for your experience. It seems to me more probable that while you were on the milk diet the rest of your diet may have been lacking in fruits and green vegetables, which your digestive system depends on to keep the bowel muscles active. I suggest that you increase such foods in your general diet and see if the trouble does not disappear.

Some Loss of Vitamin

If fresh vegetables, such as spinach, beets, beans, etc., are cooked at night and left in the same water until the next day, does a person benefit from them as much as if they had been eaten as soon as cooked? F. F.

Vegetables are, as a rule, alkaline in reaction. The vitamin which protects against scurvy deteriorates rather rapidly in an alkaline solution. That means that vegetables left as you have described above would suffer some loss of this vitamin.

You Can Be Beautiful

Clearing Up Young Skin

By ARLINE GOULD

THIS WEEK there will be a demonstration of the most vital kind to those young people whose skins are troubled and erupting... a certain cosmetic authority is going to discuss her treatment preparations, and show at the same time the actual results of care on a young face that was much in need of specialized attention!

In a matter of three months, a complexion which was bumpy with little hidden secretions called whiteheads and under-the-surface pimples, blackheads and open pores, that also showed an almost acne-like tendency to erupt, was turned into a lovely, smooth clear thing. And while such a skin needs unrelenting care, it doesn't create new harvests of blemishes as readily as before.

While the list of troubles mentioned above seems appalling, it's not uncommon to find them all in an especially harassed young skin. They require absolute hygienic cleanliness of cosmetics, soap, and lotions.

And of course there is the necessity of proper food, plenty of liquids, fruit juices; also regular bathing and plenty of fresh air and sleep.

Included in the cosmetic essentials are rare and unusual acids like a cream lubricant and cream cleanser that are absolutely greaseless. They soothe and soften the skin in the same manner that rich, oily creams do without the danger of adding more oil to the skin.

There is a lotion which is absolutely unnoticeable on the face, yet it gives a protective film or is grand for a powder base when girls use it. And for the sudden eruption that must be quelled for the night of a party, a wondrously quick-healing ointment.

If you'd like to learn the name of the shop featuring these treatment preparations, and the auditorium where the before-and-after demonstration of young skins treated by these preparations may be seen, phone Arline Gould, L.B.erty 4000, week-days until five-thirty, or write, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

"HERE'S A BEAUTY SECRET every woman should know," says pretty Dolly Dawn, vocalist with George Hall's orchestra. "Keep your face and body free from unsightly, superfluous hair." Don't use old fashioned depilatories that promote new hair growths, but learn to depend on the ROYAL METHOD of Electrolysis. This modern, scientific hair removal system is quick, safe and permanent. Over 100,000 successful treatments guarantee perfect results. For Pepped-Up Appetite

By MARTHA LEE

THE FIRST COOL DAYS of fall quicken appetites and renew interest in eating. This change in weather calls for a change in menus. Hot luncheon dishes are timely to serve and go well with the fall vegetables that are plentiful in the markets these days.

Bread cubes, made from fresh white bread, are used in these recipes. This ingredient has economy in its favor for it extends the flavor of other more expensive foods. Bread, too, is an excellent energy food and this is important to consider when planning menus for busy growing children.

STUFFED GREEN PEPPERS
6 green peppers
2 tbsp. fat
1 cup, minced onion
1 1/2 cups bread cubes
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 cup tomato pulp
1 cup diced cooked meat
2 tbsp. Worcestershire sauce

Cut tops from peppers and remove seeds. Parboil five minutes. Brown onions in fat. Add remaining ingredients. Fill into peppers and bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 45 minutes. Makes six servings.

GYPSY MEAT LOAF

4 cups bread cubes
1 lb. ground beef
1 lb. ground pork
1 egg
2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. pepper
1/2 tsp. paprika
6 strips bacon
1 cup sour cream
Combine bread, meat, seasonings and egg. Blend thoroughly. Shape into loaf. Place in greased baking dish. Lay strips of bacon over top. Pour hot water into dish to depth of 1/2 inch. Bake 1/2 hour in moderately hot oven (375 deg. F.). Pour sour cream over loaf and bake 1/2 hour longer. Makes about eight servings.

FISH CHOWDER

2 cups milk
2 cups soft bread crumbs
2 tbsp. butter
1 onion, minced
Salt and pepper
1 1/2 cups flaked fish
1 cup strained canned tomatoes
2 tsp. parsley, chopped
Combine milk, crumbs, butter, onion, salt and pepper. Heat. Add fish and cook two minutes, stirring constantly. Heat strained tomatoes and add slowly to fish mixture. Serve hot, sprinkled with chopped parsley.

BAKED CHEESE AND TOMATO

6 slices bread, buttered
3/4 lb. American cheese
2 eggs
2 cups tomato juice
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. pepper
1 tsp. minced onion
Cut buttered bread and cheese into cubes. Put alternate layers of bread and cheese into a buttered baking dish. Beat eggs slightly, add tomato juice, salt, pepper and onion. Pour over bread and cheese. Bake in moderate oven, 375 deg. F., 50 minutes.

BEAUREGARD EGGS

6 slices bread, parched (dried in the oven)
4 hard-cooked eggs
1 1/2 cups white sauce
Salt and pepper

Break parched bread into pieces. Chop the egg whites and add white sauce and seasoning. Pour over bread. Garnish with a shower of rice egg yolk. This is a quick supper dish, good for children.

Manners

Birth Announcement

DEAR MRS. BECKMAN:
I am soon to become a mother for the second time. Will you please advise me as to whether it is proper to send birth announcements? A friend of mine is going to have her fourth baby and she is going to send announcements. Is this proper?

SUBSCRIBER.

Yes, it is quite the proper thing to send birth announcements whether the baby is the first one in the family or the second... or the fourth, or whatever the number.

BAKED APPLES

(Tested by Good Housekeeping Institute)
Use Institute-approved spoons and half-pint measuring cups. Measure level.

INGREDIENTS
6 large, firm apples
1 c. granulated sugar
1 c. cream
3 tbsp. granulated sugar

METHOD OF PREPARATION
Core the apples; then pare them about one-third of the way down from the stem end and arrange in a shallow baking dish. Boil the sugar and water together for 10 min. and pour over the apples. Bake in a moderate oven of 350 degrees F. for about 1 hr. or until tender, basting frequently. Then sprinkle the peeled surface of each apple with 1 tsp. of sugar. Place the pan of apples under the broiler heat, basting them frequently and watching them carefully until the sugar has melted and the peeled section is a delicate brown. Serve hot or cold with plain or whipped cream. Serves 6. To serve 2 or 3 make half this recipe. If desired, the apples may be cooked with the sugar and water for 10 min. to give the syrup some color, the parings being then removed.

SERVE for dessert after a dinner of lamb, mint jelly, buttered onions, pan roasted potatoes and romaine salad with French dressing.

Marian Martin's Pattern will be found on Page 26.

Grand Duchess Your Guide

By ANNICE BRINK

THERE'S no one in the smart world who doesn't know almost all there is to know about the Grand Duchess Marie, who came here as a poor exile and has been getting along famously on her many talents ever since.

She has always been known for a superb sense of chic and for her own smartness, so it's no wonder that a Boston shop is so excited at being able to present a fine group of copies, exact ones, of Paris models she personally chose for the woman of mature figure.

For two days this week the Grand Duchess Marie will be available for consultation on clothes problems of the womanly figure.

She presents some beautiful, flattering negligees, day and afternoon dresses, as well as dinner outfits. They are, of course, though faithful copies, a great deal less in price than the originals.

Left, a Mainbocher model with panel effect and a curving line to the long trimming of Persian that whittles down waistline.

Right, an ingeniously tapered plastron of fine mink on a coat with slight blouse effect and simple hip-line. A Bruyere copy. The size range is 36-44.

New Under-arm Cream Deodorant safely Stops Perspiration

1. Does not rot dresses—does not irritate skin.
2. No waiting to dry. Can be used right after shaving.
3. Instantly stops perspiration for 1 to 3 days. Removes odor from perspiration.
4. A pure white, greaseless, stainless vanishing cream.
5. Arrid has been awarded the Approval Seal of the American Institute of Laundering, for being harmless to fabrics.
6. 15 MILLION jars of Arrid have been sold. Try a jar today!

ARRID

39¢ a jar. At all stores selling toilet goods (also in 10¢ and 50¢ jars)

FOR SHOPPING information on these women's coats from the collection of Grand Duchess Marie, Paris copies of her choice, featured by a Boston shop, phone Annice Brink, Fashion Editor, LIBerty 4000, week days until five-thirty, or write.

Love and Marriage

College or Marriage—Which?

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

My mother is very anxious for me to have a college education, but as we are not very wealthy it would mean a great deal of sacrifice on her part. I'm the only child and do want to please her, as she has been very good to me.

I'm almost 15 years old, in my last year in high school and very much in love with a young man of 20. We want to marry right after I graduate in February.

NAOMI.

I have a great deal of sympathy with young love, but I should like to have you right here with me some morning when I open my mail. If you could only see the pitiful letters I get from girls who have married so young that they feel they've had no youth. I'm sure you would change your mind about a college education.

Have you thought of the fact that unless this boy of 20 has inherited wealth his chance of marrying for many years is very slim?

I think the most practical thing for you, after graduation, is to equip yourself to be self-supporting. And then, if you're still determined to marry, you will be able to help with the expense end of it.

GRAY HAIR

Brush It Away... Look 15 Years Younger
At home without risk, you can quickly tint those streaks or patches of gray to harmonious shades of blonde, brown or black. DIOXOGEN and a small amount of oil. Easy to prove by testing a lock of your hair. Cannot affect waving of hair. DIOXOGEN is a harmless, active coloring agent. Purely vegetable. Little DIOXOGEN must give your gray, streaked or faded hair shining, rich, youthful color, or money back. Only 50¢ at all drug stores.

"DIOXOGEN CREAM is just grand for getting rid of faded sunlight," says Ann Francine, social register singer at Le Coq Rouge, "for this is the time of the year that a fair skin is a must again—and I'm delighted with the results that I get with Dioxogen Cream." Yes indeed, there is good reason why Dioxogen Cream is specially fine for coaxing back a fair lady-like complexion. It releases active oxygen—real active oxygen! Use it as a cleansing cream. Use it as an overnight cream, and you too will be delighted. 20¢, 50¢, $1.00 at any drug store.

The PRIVATE LIFE of Dr. Hilary

by HENRY and SYLVIA LIEFERANT
AUTHORS OF "DOCTORS' WIVES"

DR. HILARY rose slowly to inspect the laboratory exhibits. To scrape them, put in new sutures. It was that way all morning with him—scrape and sew, probe and illuminate, question and unreasonable anger, delay and speed, antiseptic and cut again, infection and lance.

An irksome routine morning, without rhythm. That was the trouble. The rhythm of his life was destroyed. The minutes jerked and stalled, flew and raced and came to a dead halt. He missed that rhythm. He required it.

In the operating room the day before, he had waited for it endlessly, until he saw by Griswold's face that there was danger of the patient's coming out of either before the operation was over.

Yet he hadn't found that subtle, silent tide. There had been no rhythm to the whole performance.

It was ten minutes to twelve. Martin washed his hands meticulously, combed his hair through habit, and waiting at the window of the consultation room, knew that there had never been a longer ten minutes in his life.

At 12 Skean brought Phoebe in. Instantly she left them alone, and although Martin resented the look of Skean's back as she turned, simultaneously he was grateful that he did not have to ask her to go.

Why should he be resentful when he wanted to be alone with Phoebe?

She sat in the chair at the end of the desk where all patients sat during consultation, her knees not two feet from his, her hands within reach of his.

She was taller in street clothes than he had remembered. She carried a long coat of a cheap woolen mixture over her arm, and wore the same shabby blue suit in which he had first seen her.

He did not think of that first meeting very often now, ashamed these many weeks of the unconscious cruelty of it.

He could think only of the pulse in his throat, the tumult of nerves and senses, the vast soaring ecstasy of her nearness.

Phoebe spoke first. "Well—here I am again. A sadder and wiser girl."

"Sadder, Phoebe? I thought you were better than new."

"But I had to squeeze myself into my clothes."

"Is that something to be sad about?" He smiled with difficulty, because the glowing aura of her health stabbed him. Her skin was repossessed of a living quality. Her hands, always delicate, were, nevertheless, vitalized by an inner health.

And suddenly, in swift succession, visions of her in various stages of her illness passed rapidly before him, each animated for a flash, then fading into the next.

The last, strangely, was a picture he knew only by hearsay, having nothing to do with her illness—that of a golden-haired infant, with a large pink bow over one ear, being wheeled by a dark-haired girl of 13.

Nora! Nora mustn't intrude at this moment. He did not want Nora here. He forbade her to enter the scene.

"Have you got a place to live, Phoebe?" Let it be with me. Live in my heart—my life.

"I made arrangements on the telephone."

"The same room?" Let me in, Phoebe. I'll share it with you.

"Cinderella into Princess, and back again into pumpkin."

"It wasn't Cinderella who turned back into a pumpkin," Martin said, disgusted with his own half-hearted attempts at railleury.

"Is it a comfortable place for you, Phoebe?" Is it a place where I can see you, Phoebe, he meant, or will the suspicious landlady Nora described keep me out? Nora again—Nora, this isn't your affair. Keep out!

At every word a lurking silence hedged them about threatening to engulf them if they didn't beat it back, a jungle silence, breathless and smothering. Martin thought, I mustn't let the silence take hold. Prolong the sweet hour. Cry out in pain and agony—but don't let her go.

"You said something about boarding school, yesterday, Phoebe. Were you as happy as all that—these weeks?"

Her hands were curiously still, white birds resting. "Yes, I suppose it's immoral for me to have enjoyed illness so much. I don't mean the operation—the first two weeks. But after that—it was like boarding school to a kid. Adventure. A dream. And now it's over. I'm not sorry."

"You're not sorry it's over?"

"I'm not sorry I dreamed it. Whatever anybody says, I can live on a dream—the rest of my life."

You need not live on a dream, Martin's heart cried. Oh, be patient, Phoebe. It isn't over.

A sudden suspicious quiet enveloped them. The silence was winning. Her gratitude ground into him like sandpaper. Did she have no idea why he had been generous to her?

Had she no faint, fleeting vision of the significance of his attention and devotion?

"Do you want to see me again, Martin?" she spoke so softly that he heard her only because he had been watching the sweet trembling of her mouth. He did not really hear her; he saw the words.

Did he want to see her again? He never wanted to stop seeing her—to stop remembering the arc of her throat, the sensitive high-boned face, the awe and wonder and grace of a creature called Phoebe Dixon.

His answer shouted in his brain so authoritatively that he was afraid he had spoken it.

But he had not, and a need to be honest, to end this agony of crawling over barbed-wire barriers dictated his answer.

"If you mean do I have to see you again as doctor to patient—"

The childish look was suddenly gone from her face.

"That isn't what I mean. You know what I'm asking you. You don't want to answer. You're being polite—kind. I don't want you to be kind to me. Why don't you hurt me? Cut me off clean and swift—"

She was a woman, young, urgent, terrified. Martin looked up sharply.

The transformation in her was appalling. A familiar, taut expression about her thin cheeks, an unnatural glister in her eyes struck a vaguely familiar note, but he could not identify it immediately.

It was as if her eyes, while glazed with some sweet emotion, were nevertheless observing him quite sharply.

The atmosphere in the room became quite ominous and instantly the storm broke.

With a strangled cry, Phoebe threw back her head, closed her eyes and burst into tears. She didn't hide her face as women do when they burst into tears.

"Can't you see that I love you?" she sobbed. "Don't you know that I'm sick with loving you? I've been in love with you ever since I first walked into this office. You can't just send me away like this, Martin. You mustn't. You gave me everything worthwhile in life, and now you want to take it back."

For only a flash of time Martin was horrified. For days he had dreamed of her confession of love, but now that she had made the first move, something was wrong. Something was wrong.

(What can Dr. Hilary do now? Is it too late to go back to Nora? Don't miss tomorrow's thrilling chapter.)

How to Cure Fuzzy Chin

CONSTERNATION seizes a woman's soul when she glances in a mirror and finds that some horrid fuzzers have settled on her chin. Why should that curse come upon her? She doesn't know, nor does anyone else.

There is no reason for bearing with the blemish if the purse will permit a small investment. The electric needle, burrowing into the pore beside the hair shaft, will destroy the papilla so a new hair will not appear.

The hair is then plucked out with the tweezers. If there is any resistance, the needle must be used a second time. The fact that the hair is removed without pain shows that the electric current has accomplished its purpose.

British Bear Out Story of Nazi Cash By Knickerbocker

LONDON, Sept. 27 (INS) The recent dispatch by H. R. Knickerbocker, famous foreign correspondent of International News Service, revealing that high Nazi leaders had deposited a total of more than $34,000,000 in foreign countries was borne out today in a statement by the British Ministry of Information.

High Flier?

Asserting that German officials lived in comparative luxury, the ministry said of Propaganda-Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels' recent press conference, in which Goebbels denied Knickerbocker's story: "The greater part of what Goebbels had to say to foreign press correspondents was in reply to a story recently published by two reputable and responsible American journalists in the American press describing some of the details of the funds which Nazi leaders have deposited abroad."

Denied Story (William Stoneman of the Chicago Daily News made disclosures similar to those of Knickerbocker.) "Goebbels denies this story, which he describes as an attack on his personal honor. "Those who have heard it and read it are able to judge between Goebbels and the journalists whose story he denies."

The German film "Daddy's Birthday," dealing with the home life of the "now indignant minister of propaganda," revealed far too much luxury, according to the British Ministry of Information.

12 AUTOMOBILES

"Great Britain and America are reputed to be rich countries," said the ministry, "but while British cabinet officers do not have official automobiles, Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering admitted to a foreign diplomat that he had 42 for his own personal use."

"British ministers do not have entertainment allowances, but Goering admitted receiving half a million marks solely for the purpose of entertaining during a hunting exhibition in 1937."

"This cannot really be called 'Prussian simplicity.' "It is not surprising that Goebbels and others should have thought themselves above currency regulations, since they habitually regard themselves as above the law."

Rob Roxbury Diner Near Police Station

Two armed men held up the manager and cook of the United Diner at Roxbury Crossing, two blocks from Police Station 10, and escaped with $69 in loot.

One of the bandits forced the manager, Peter Alevizos, 47, and cook, Peter Charlos, 18, into a rear room while his companion rifled the cash register. Several other Roxbury holdups are attributed to the same pair by police.

You can borrow from $20 to $300 without saving others to sign with you. Decide on the amount of cash you need, then choose the payment which suits your budget. You may repay in 2 to 20 months, as your income permits. Below is a table showing sample repayment schedules. Other amounts and other plans are available. Note how you may repay your loan in a very few months to keep the cost to a minimum. Note, too, what small payments can be made if you wish.

Amount you pay back each month (including all charges) for following periods:	2 mos.	4 mos.	6 mos.	8 mos.	10 mos.	12 mos.	15 mos.	18 mos.	20 mos.
$ 50	$25.94	$13.29	$9.08	$6.91	$5.71	$4.87	$4.25	$3.75	$3.41
100	51.88	26.58	18.15	13.82	11.43	9.75	8.50	7.50	6.82
150	77.82	39.87	27.23	20.72	17.14	14.62	12.75	11.25	10.23
200	103.77	53.16	36.31	27.80	22.85	19.50	17.00	15.00	13.63
250	129.72	66.45	45.40	34.76	28.57	24.38	21.25	18.75	17.00

This is based on prompt repayment. Payments may be made in advance of the day they are due if you wish. Advance payment makes the cost of your loan proportionately less, as you pay charges only for the actual time you have the money. Payments are calculated at 6% per annum. If rate of 2 1/2% per month, which is 30% per annum, is used, the cost of your loan will be increased.

Floyd Gibbons Laid To Rest

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (INS)—The body of Floyd Gibbons, world-famous war correspondent, was laid to rest today in Mt. Olivet cemetery—far from the wars he had followed in life.

Death from a heart attack overtook the noted writer and radio commentator Sunday at his farm near Stroudsburg, Pa.

Gibbons' body was brought to Washington for funeral services at Georgetown University, his alma mater.

The Rev. Fr. John J. Kehoe, S. J., intoned a requiem high mass for the Washington-born writer in Dahlgren chapel on the Georgetown campus, and then 13 of Gibbons' closest friends formed a solemn guard of honor to accompany the body to the cemetery.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (INS)—Improvement was reported today in the condition of Senator Carter Glass (D.) of Virginia, stricken with bronchitis.

Roast Chicken, Old Hat Each Split 50-50

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (INS)—Herbert L. Bruce and Miles Duncan, partners in a Harlem cafe, went their separate ways today after splitting up their partnership on a literal 50-50 basis.

They divided the liquor, dishes, glassware, toothpicks, napkins, tables, chairs, doors, windows, cutlery and the plumbing fixtures equally between them but they were momentarily stunned by a counter, the circular bar, a discarded straw hat and a roast chicken in the ice box.

So they hauled out saws and cut all four in half.

Dual Role
For Lempke
At Hanover

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Sept. 27 (AP)—The scrubs may be football's "forgotten men" in most cases, but at Yale they manage to get some attention. A pair of them aroused more interest than varsity performers in the Tuesday scrimmage. Sumner Macomber made some long runs, and Ted Turner played brilliantly at center.

Turner, a sophomore, may replace Capt. Bill Slack in another season. Macomber is a senior, so he'll have to win his varsity job this year—or else.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—Coach Bob Neyland of Tennessee figures it "wouldn't be so bad," if George Cafego, his star back, had sprained his knee a week or ten days ago, instead of yesterday.

With three days to prepare for a tough opening game against North Carolina state, Neyland doesn't know whether he will have to find a substitute. Sophomore Johnny Butler is the leading candidate.

NEW YORK—For the first time in its 51 years of football, Fordham will play some games in white jerseys, instead of the traditional maroon.

The Rams will wear white against Alabama, Tulane and Indiana, red-shirted teams, to make it easier to distinguish the players. They will wear their regular color in other contests.

MANHATTAN, Kan.—A couple of years ago, Kansas State fans nicknamed Elmer Hackney the "One Man Gang" because of the way he broke up opposing teams, but this season it looks as though he really would earn the title.

The shot put champion has added passing to his line-tracking specialty, and when tried out yesterday on kick-offs he calmly booted the ball over the goal line.

HANOVER, N. H.—Bob Lempke apparently is slated for a dual role on the Dartmouth team this year. He was shifted from his 1938 pivot role to become second-string quarterback. But when Dick Kersting, scrub center, suffered a sprained ankle yesterday and joined Ed Phelan and Zeke Billings on the bench, Lempke went back to the line. Coach Earl Blaik says he will be used at both positions.

The most successful season in local racing history comes to a close tomorrow night at Medford with the running of the sanctioned New England midget auto racing championship finals.

The players, flying here yesterday from Pittsburgh, spent the night in a Minneapolis hotel. They are due at Spokane, Wash., late today for a workout before continuing on to Seattle.

HELEN WILLS MOODY PLAYS ON COAST

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 27 (AP)—Top ranking tennis stars sailed blithely through play in the Pacific Southwest net championships today, with Sarah Palfrey Fryban of Boston meeting Mary Arnold of Los Angeles in one of the feature matches.

Helen Wills Moody returned to the tournament scene, paired with Adrian Quist of Australia in a mixed doubles set-to against Miss Arnold and Braco Mitic of Yugoslavia.

Alice Marble, Bobby Riggs, Quist and his teammate, John Bromwich, emerged safely from second round matches yesterday.

Curtis Cup Golf Off

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (INS)—The 1940 Curtis Cup matches between women's golf teams representing the United States and England have been called off on account of the war, the United States Golf Ass'n announced today. The matches were scheduled for England.

Shift Vancer Eb To Crimson End

By DAVID GLEUCK

Guard on Harvard's '38 Team

Henry G. Vander Eb has been moved from blocking back to end in an effort to strengthen that department of the Harvard team. This change was contemplated even before Joe Koufman, second string wing, who is still out with a body injury, was bumped in scrimmage recently.

The graduation last June of Capt. Bobby Green, Dan Daughters and Win Jameson, all veterans of three seasons, left the Crimson flanks almost completely unprotected.

Since there were no additions among this year's sophomores, End Coach Fesler started work this September with Devine, Kelly, Downing, Lovett and Koufman, none of whom have had much varsity experience.

It is in an attempt to stimulate the development of this squad that Dick Harlow has moved Vander Eb from the backfield to end. The former blocker, who started several of last year's freshman games, prepped at Loomis, after which he spent a year abroad preceding his matriculation at Harvard.

This year's absence from the game probably accounts for Hank's slowness in getting started this season. Well built, weighing 190 pounds, the West Hartford boy showed well in contact work and should be a valuable addition to Fesler's flankers.

Another Harvard change shifted Endicot (Club) Peabody from running to short guard on B team in an attempt at a more even distribution of strength in these positions. With Moss Hallett and Erny Sergeant both working well at running guard (before the ball) Dick has decided to give first-stringer Dan Lowry more support on the short side.

TORRIS SHOOTING PASSES
Rain did not shorten passes for Harvard. One good hour was spent scrimmaging, the last 20 minutes of which emphasized passing particularly. Capt. Macdonald was throwing with plenty of accuracy, and Harlow, who had already commented on Torbert's running, seemed very satisfied with the aerial attack.

The scrimmage showed considerable improvement. Sprey's running and Devine's pass-catching came in for special commendation.

Hill Brown, bucking back, was rewarded for good work in the last scrimmage by a position on B team in place of Bobby James.

The ends remain Dick Harlow's biggest problem this year. There is some indecision among the coaches at this point as to who will start at the other posts, but there is no telling now who will be on the ends when the boys run into the Stadium a week from Saturday.

Pete Elser, alling tackle, is back in signal drill, and Al Eney, an end, is ready for rough work.

GARDELLA MISSING
Gardella, Lovett and Miller, absent from practice, were planning studies for the coming semester with their tutors.

William J. Bingham, chairman of the committee on the regulation of athletic sports at Harvard, announced the appointment of Nick Mellen as line coach of the junior varsity football team.

Mellen was graduated from Harvard last June. He played guard on the Harvard varsity football team during the 1933 season and won his major H as a starter against Yale. He was a guard on the 1935 and 1937 junior varsity teams and won a minor "H" both years.

His home is in Roslindale. He prepared for Harvard at Everett High School, where he competed in football and baseball.

The addition of Mellen to the pigskin professors completes the junior varsity coaching staff which has Floyd Stahl guiding the backs and Henry Lamar as head coach. The Crimson A's and B's lined up in scrimmage as follows:

HUSKIES TACKLE SPOTS SET

Jimmy Dunn will again use his freshmen under lights this evening as he puts the finishing touches to his revamped Northeastern grid machine for its opener with St. Anselm's Saturday at Kent Field.

The Huskies mentor chose 18 of the best looking freshmen last week and had them drilled on the Hawks offense.

Dunn has ordered a scrimmage to get it his varsity can master its defensive assignments.

Met Warshaw and Dean Williams, a pair of newcomers who both hit 200 pounds, showed to a good advantage at the tackle berth and are certain to start Saturday.

Warshaw hails from Roxbury and never played high school football. He played one game as a freshman two years ago, and then did not report last fall.

The story of Williams is still stranger. Dean originally hails from Pawnee, Nebraska, where he was All-State center. On this reputation he entered Northeastern, but he turned out to be a chunky kid who reported for freshman football weighing 250 pounds. He was so slow he was of little use.

Williams did not play last fall, but he came out three weeks ago weighing 133 pounds and has amazed Jimmy Dunn with his play. Dean, after two weeks of work, has upped his weight to an even 200 and is ready to go.

Eagles Set For Invasion Of Lebanon

Boston College, under Frank Leahy, the youthful coach is practically ready for the Saturday invasion of Lebanon Valley. The Eagles will oppose the freshmen in scrimmage for a short time this afternoon, then put contact work in moth balls until whistle time Saturday.

All of the Eagles, except Dave Lucey third string quarterback, who bruised his shoulder are in comparatively good shape.

Lebanon Valley will bring a squad of 30 men for the encounter. Of these five are seniors, eight are juniors, six are sophomores and 11 are members of this year's freshman class.

Whatever it lacks in experience Lebanon will make up for in weight. Of the possible starting backfield, three men are six feet or over, and none goes under 180 pounds. They're big and they're reputed to be fast, like to throw passes, and gamble.

RUBE'S BROTHERS IN ACTION

Two of Rural Rube's brothers, Otto Behave and Little Brother have earned a spot in the line of tonight's 12-race program at Wonderland in Revere.

Otto & Behave faces Boston Laddie and other good ones over the 5 1/8ths of a mile course in the eighth.

In the ninth, Little Brother, a winner of his previous start, will be the probable starter.

ROOM AND BOARD By Eugene Ahern

BILLY CONN, world's light heavyweight champion, can conquer any man of his weight and inches in the world, but he is not yet a serious threat for Joe Louis . . . Conn weighed only 172½ pounds for his winning title defense bout with Melio Bettina, and barely won . . . The Associated Press score card gave Conn eight rounds, Bettina seven.

It is Mike Jacobs' hope that Conn will add 20 pounds and then be ready for Louis . . . It may be possible to fatten Conn up, but such weight is harmful to a boxer.

When Tommy Loughran, who put up frequent good bouts in Boston, successfully defended his world's light heavyweight title against Jimmy Braddock, he invaded the heavyweight division . . . Jack Sharkey was his first opponent . . . Along with Frank Bruen and Harry Grayson, I went to Harvey's Lake, Pa., to see Loughran train . . . I found Joe Smith in charge of Loughran's camp.

"We have built Tommy up until he weighs 184 pounds," Smith told me.

"Which means Sharkey will knock Loughran out quicker than if the latter was at the light heavyweight limit of 175 pounds," I said . . . "The reason is simple . . . Loughran is fast at 175 pounds, but when you burden him down with nine extra pounds of weight he sacrifices speed . . . Sharkey will be faster than Loughran, and as he can hit as well as box he will win by a knockout inside of five rounds."

Smith became quite indignant over my prediction . . . He later admitted I was correct when Sharkey won by a knockout in three rounds.

"I felt I was going places when I entered the ring with Sharkey," Loughran told me . . . "Then Jack hit me with a right hand punch and I felt as if he was using a baseball bat."

Jack Delaney also tried unsuccessfully to make the heavyweight grade . . . Jim Maloney with Dan Carroll in his corner beat Delaney in the New York Garden at a show that drew $182,000 . . . This is still an indoor record for gate receipts . . . Jack Sharkey previously knocked out Mike McTigue, another light heavyweight who got heavyweight minded, in the same ring . . . "Young" Stribling, who also had starred as a light heavyweight, met with disaster when he invaded the heavyweight class at Miami Beach, Fla., with Sharkey as his opponent.

Gene Tunney was one of the few light heavyweights who packed on natural weight, and who went on to win the heavyweight title . . . Tunney spent years exercising outdoors to add the solid pounds of weight that made it possible for him to strip Jack Dempsey of his championship.

Conn will appear in Mike Jacobs' first boxing show at the Boston Garden the latter part of next month . . . Tony Shucro, Lou Brouillard and Al McCoy have been mentioned as possible opponents for Conn.

Frank Conway Credit to Athletics

THE SUDDEN DEATH following a heart attack of 25-year-old Frank Conway of Somerville, associated with the sports staff of this newspaper, was a blow to all who knew him . . . Young Conway came to the sports staff from the news department, where he had been schooled in journalism by Frank O'Connor, who, at the time, had charge of the Cambridge edition . . . The same ability that enabled Frank Conway to excel in writing news also helped him to make rapid strides as a sports writer . . . Last summer Frank reported the Davis Cup tennis matches and national doubles for this newspaper and did an outstanding job . . . This fall he planned to write college football.

Frank had tremendous enthusiasm for his work which is always the trait of a good newspaperman . . . He was a splendid example of a young American anxious to accomplish important things in life . . . In addition to his newspaper writings, Frank was active in the civic affairs of Somerville . . . He felt that one should help to make the community in which one lives better . . . I know Frank succeeded.

I never could understand why the young must die, especially when they possess all the fine qualities which are important in the accomplishment of good . . . We are taught, however, that we must accept such things and we know that for some unexplainable reason they are for the best . . . It is fine to have worked with and to have known Frank Conway . . . He was a real standard bearer of young American manhood.

Random Shots at Target

JIMMY McCARRON, former amateur boxing champion, has tossed his hat into the Somerville political ring . . . He is a candidate for Alderman-at-large at the election that takes place on October 17 . . . Jimmy started boxing as an amateur when 16 years of age, and remained in competition for ten years . . . During that time he won New England and Golden Glove titles at 135 pounds, and represented Uncle Sam on the 1932 Olympic team . . . The Somerville boxer was recently married to his schoolyard sweetheart who starred in Siegfried's Follies under the name of Theo Phane and in the movies with the late Will Rogers as Frances Grant . . . Upon his marriage, Jimmy announced he had quit the ring, while his bride retired from stage and screen . . . Jimmy is employed in a Boston bank . . . He believes he will win in his first bid for public office.

CHAMPION. Emily Fuller of Bethlehem, Pa., national women's singles queen, who will appear Friday in exhibition at Cambridge Y. M. C. A.

Ad Men Cavort At Woodland

More than 100 advertising men are expected at Woodland Golf Club Friday for the ninth annual advertising tournament, sponsored by the Advertising Club of Boston, the Boston Chapter of the American Association of Advertising Agencies, the Crosscup-Fishon Post of the American Legion and the Lantern Club.

Metz B. Hayes is chairman of the golf committee for the all-day tournament. Bill McDonald is taking care of the prize array, and Hal MacNamee will be master of ceremonies at the annual dinner which will begin at 7 o'clock.

Other committee members are Herb Stephens, Herman Weiner, Lou Glaser, Lindley Bond, George Kennison, Hap Kern, Ralph Ackerman, Ernest Alley, Allyn B. McIntire and Phil McAtee.

N.E.P.G.A. Stars Ready for Mutiny

By BILL GRIMES

After threatening to develop into a serious issue for many years, dissension finally broke out in the ranks of the New England Professional Golfers' Association during the annual championship at the Salem Country Club.

With the exception of the few years that the organization was governed by older and wiser heads, most of whom have passed on, the N. E. P. G. A. has been the victim of cliques, since C. Harry Bowler threw in the towel and quit more than two decades ago . . . Apparently, Bowler saw the handwriting on the wall.

When a championship attracts but 28 entries, there isn't any rhyme or reason for any twosome starting at the 10th tee . . . "Jug" McSpaden and Jim Fogarty played the back nine first in the opening round. That was the tipoff that there was trouble in the offing.

After two rounds, Pres. Marty Higgins arranged the threesome for the second day's play. Harry Nettelblatt, Framingham, was leading the field at the half-way mark, one stroke out in front of McSpaden, the defending champion, and John Woodland.

When Nettelblatt saw that he had been assigned to play with Thoren and Edmund Burke, Wianno, and that Jim Fogarty, who was tied for seventh place, had been drawn to play with Tony Manero and McSpaden, the panic was on.

An attempt was made to have Fogarty go out with Thoren and Burke but the Myopia professional refused and threatened to withdraw. During a long and heated argument in the locker room, McSpaden called a spade a spade, after he had declared that he would not play unless Fogarty was in his threesome.

And, while the big shots were letting down their hair about each other, Jerry Gianferante suddenly came to the conclusion that he wasn't overjoyed at playing with Joe Pezzullo, which, of course, put poor Jim Turness, who was the third member of that threesome in the middle.

Finally, Pres. Higgins agreed to allow Fogarty and Nettelblatt to play with McSpaden and Manero. And, out they went as a foursome, in a field of 21 contestants.

Realizing that there was hard feelings between McSpaden and Nettelblatt, Pres. Higgins had purposefully assigned them to different threesomes. And, he used good judgment up to that point. But, when he allowed Nettelblatt to question and even change the draw, Higgins flopped badly.

Once it is made and posted, a draw cannot, or at least, should not be altered. In P. G. A. tournaments every player is tendered a contract covering all points, such as entry fees, purses, which is final.

Harry Nettelblatt argued that he was the leader and should play with the defending champion. Apparently, he was not aware of McSpaden's animosity. But after he was enlightened on that subject, the Framingham professional still insisted upon what he believed to be his rights. And, he won his point.

The aftermath of the McSpaden-Nettelblatt controversy will make

Table Tennis Tilt At Camb. Y. M. C. A.

Three Hungarian table tennis stars, Viktor Barna, world champion, and an American girl will pair off Friday and Saturday in a series of exhibition matches sponsored by the Cambridge Y. M. C. A. and the Colonial Table Tennis Club of Cambridge.

The matches, held at the Cambridge "Y" feature Barna, Emily Fuller of Bethlehem, Pa., runner-up for the national women's title last year, Tibor Hazi and Magda Gai of Hungary, both high ranking international players.

interesting reading if it even reaches the golfing public. But, unless some very drastic changes are made in the organization, the N. E. P. G. A. is in danger of skidding right out of the picture.

Harold "Jug" McSpaden, Winchester, shot two remarkable rounds of golf yesterday while successfully defending his N. E. P. G. A. title at the Salem Country Club . . . Playing under very adverse conditions, McSpaden posted a pair of 70s, four under par figures.

Handicapped as he was by a sprained wrist, Tony Manero, Salem, showed that he has what it takes to be a champion by finishing in second place . . . A few courageous golfer would have quit.

Dick Kersting Lost to Green

HANOVER, N. H., Sept. 27 (AP)—Dartmouth's center position became acute when Dick Kersting of the scrubs, sprained his ankle during a long scrimmage Coach Earl Blaik directed in freezing weather. Kersting will be out of action for three weeks and with Ed Phelan and Zeke Billings.

Bob Lempe, the second-string quarterback, was switched back to his 198 snapperback role to plug the gap and Blaik said he would be used in both positions during the season.

During the scrimmage, which Captain Will Miller watched from afar, due to a knee injury, Jack Hutchinson, veteran halfback, said Jack Orr, the fullback, ripped the second team's line to shreds on power plays.

Cut Reds, Cards Game off Air

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP)—The National Broadcasting Co. said the second game of the doubleheader between the Cincinnati Reds and the St. Louis Cardinals was not broadcast, because officials of the major league baseball clubs withdrew their permission. The first game was broadcast.

Lettermen Hold All Tufts Berths

Coach Lew Manly seems well pleased with his Tufts grid squad as they close their second full week of practice. The Jumbos boast lettermen for every berth, and several sophomores are giving them a real battle.

Bob Rutter, outstanding on last season's yearlings, is proving himself a powerful back, and was being carefully watched by Coach Manly as he was tried in the full-back position. Bill Harrison was given an opportunity to hurl some forward passes, and his display of accuracy makes him the best passer in the entire squad.

GENTLEMAN JIM VICTOR

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 27 (AP)—Gentleman Jim, owned by John Davis of Toledo and driven by Wayne Smart, won the 63d renewal of the $2000 Lexington stake for two-year-old trotters at the Lexington trots.

FITCH BY K. O.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 27 (AP)—George Fitch, 182, New Haven Negro, scored a seventh round technical knockout over Henry Cooper, 186, Brooklyn, N. Y., in the feather bout at the New Haven Arena.

HORSEMAN DEAD

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 27 (AP)—Jere L. Tarlton, 77, widely known trotting horse breeder, died at his home, Allendale Farm, near here. His most famous trotters were Lord Allen and Airedale.

Joe O'Donnell In Golden Glove Trial Bouts

The amateur boxing season is on in full swing. It must be because the Irish-American A. A. announced today that it would start trials for its Golden Gloves tournament next Monday at the Arena and because Joe O'Donnell of Everett, New England, middleweight champion, would be among the competitors.

There will be four series of elimination bouts, with the grand finals on October 30. Boxing will be in all eight championship classes. O'Donnell, who rose from novice ranks to sectional championship honors in less than a year, tops a fine list of entries for Monday's show.

Although entries will not close until Saturday, some fine boxers have already forwarded their blanks to Tom Ricker.

These include: Joe Teabag, Dorchester, and Tony Coast, Taunton, 112 pounds; Daniel Corraia, East Boston; Gene Morris, Natick, and Jack Condon, Dorchester, 126 pounds; John Smallwood, Boston; Frank Fera, Taunton, and Louis Reposa, Fall River, 135 pounds; and Pete Santos, North Providence, 175 pounds.

Mohawks, Columbus Nines in Twin Bill

Lincoln Mohawks and Columbus Associates will continue their series for the Suburban Two League championship in another doubleheader at Lincoln Town Field next Sunday afternoon, starting at 1:30 o'clock. Columbus Associates can annex its third straight league title and Tom Yawkey Cup by taking both games next Sunday.

Wilson Continues to Set Pace --- Five Winners!

Dave Wilson, Boston Evening American and Sunday Advertiser turf expert, increased his lead for the season over

New England's other handicappers by coming up with five winners on the Tuesday card at Rockingham.

DAVE LOVER OF HORSES

Wilson's winners were:

Second race—Gurkha, which paid $9.60.

Fourth race—Floataway, which paid $6.80.

Fifth race—Liberty Kerr, which paid $7.20.

Sixth race—Stop Light, which paid $15.40.

Seventh race—Gay May, which paid $5.80.

Since his advent in Boston in 1934, Wilson has led New England's handicappers consistently, and his fame has become nationwide. Wilson's superiority is so acknowledged that New York, Chicago and even Pacific Coast papers run his selections daily.

This was the best of Wilson's many good days he has had since the thoroughbreds shifted from Narragansett to Rockingham, although several times in the past ten days he has come up three and four daily.

WIN WITH WILSON!

Follow him every day. His selections appear exclusively in the Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday Advertiser.

LATIN SCHOOL LINE WEAK LINK IN CHAIN

By MICHAEL GILLOOLY

Coach Charlie FitzGerald—with a capital "G", please—probably wishes there were a few more studious athletes and a few less athletic students at Public Latin this fall that there might be a more eligible turnout for the 1939 football squad.

To whittle it down to figures, Coach FitzGerald might even be satisfied with two—a pair who might make the club shape up much stronger than at present.

This is hardly a new problem to the Purple mentor for every year the same situation pops up so that by now, FitzGerald has passed the stage of worrying. Still two boys with a sprinkling of experience will help any club and this season, the squad can't afford the loss.

With only two veterans on the outfit, there is again the task of rebuilding while praying that the absentees will toe the scholastic mark before the season reaches its midway point. It is possible and most probable that the duet will swing into harmony with the report cards before this deadline.

LACK LINEMEN

But without his expected regulars, Coach FitzGerald looks forward to a fair season with a surplus of ball carriers and a scarcity of linemen, hoping that a shakeup in a few positions will turn up heads.

"You can't tell an awful lot about a team until it gets into action and we open Saturday at St. Mark's private school," declared Coach FitzGerald. "After that game we'll know a lot better how things stand."

"We have a fine backfield while the line should progress with the season. We'll field our best eleven and hope for favorable results."

One of FitzGerald's veterans will be in the backfield for the opening game, Joe Havey, with his running mates still undecided. Walter Morris, Ed Zawalich, Chris McCarthy and Jim Van Campen lead the pack of backs in the order named.

Morris, the shiftest back on the squad, will be the first colored boy to gain first string rating under FitzGerald in about 10 years. Practically a certainty to start, Morris depends on his flying feet to pick up yardage and certainly has done that in the practice sessions at Draper field.

ZAWALICH GOOD KICKER

Zawalich, a good kicker, has been alternating at guard. If the linemen fail to live up to promise, he may start at this position leaving the ball carrier's berth open to Van Campen.

Dan Gorenstein taps the list of backfield spares, which includes Bernie O'Brien, Brendan Kelly, John Cullen and a pair of newcomers in Dick Dunn and Paul McGarver.

With Zawalich a possibility at a guard, the other post becomes a battle between Bob Campbell, Milt Rutstein and Johnny Connolly, while at center Larry Redgate and Joe McEtrick head the group of candidates.

WARD SET AT GUARD

FitzGerald's other veteran, Bill Ward, will take his accustomed place at one of the tackles, while Mal Smith, a reserve last season, keeps Mike Gargan and Bob Curran on the second team.

Walter Donohue, George Casey and George Earley have set the pace so far in the fight for the wings while holding off the threats of Fred Robinson and Joe Carey. (Mechanic Arts high school's prospects will appear in tomorrow's Daily Record.)

Barrington Fair Opens October 2nd

Thoroughbred racing returns to the Berkshires in a blaze of glory, Oct. 2 through 7, when the 98th annual Barrington Fair presents a six-day program of pari-mutual running races, attracting speedy bangtails from Canada and this region to vie for $10,000 in purses. Forty-five races will be conducted during the meeting, which was inaugurated two years ago on the fair grounds. A new mutuel plant has been erected next to the grandstand which will accommodate 3000.

Purple Specializes On Pass Defense

WORCESTER, Sept. 27 (AP)—Working through a cold and drizzling rain, the Holy Cross football squad again centered its attention on passes as it prepared for Saturday's opening game with Manhattan.

The Crusaders not only polished their own aerial attack, generalised by Ronnie Cahill, Alex Nahigian and Tom Sullivan, but both the first and second teams also put in long sessions on pass defense.

COLONELS TRIM WINGS

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 27 (INS)—Faced by the four-hit pitching of the veteran Leroy Parmelee and the hard hitting of infielder Vince Sherlock, the Louisville Colonels shut out the Rochester Red Wings, 7 to 0, to win the first game of the Little World Series.

DEATH'S ECHO---IRON GUARDISTS DIE WHERE RUMAN PREMIER DIED

Executed—At the very spot in Bucharest where Rumanian Premier Calinescu was assassinated lie the bodies of nine men executed for the crime. For 24 hours crowds were allowed to view this silent threat to pro-Nazi Iron Guardists blamed for the Premier's death. This striking photo flown to Paris, radioed here.
